Sam, "neat"
It's been a "neat"
freshman year. We're finally out of that damn English class. Ms. Dorsey was starting to become a real bitch.
I was getting sick of all her symbols, final speech, I will decide
if I've lived through Speech! Well, have a good summer! Relax!
I hope 2CV next year!

Hey Sam ~~~~~
Well, this has been a great but stressful year!
We've just about survived through English, after my final speech, I will decide
if I've lived through Speech! Well, have a good summer! Relax!
I hope 2CV next year!

Melissa

Sam - I was very nice to you this year in World History. Top bad at trust me, you didn't miss much! Anyway, hope fully we'll be in some classes together next year! Bye now!
P.S. - S. Korea is still better than N. Korea!!!

Sam - Even though I haven't talked to you in a while, the beginning of the year in with was fun wasn't it? At least you didn't push my arm off the desk! Have a great year!
Carla

Sam - I am really glad
I met you this year.
You are a very nice
(sounds general & dull huh)
Well then - you are a totally Awesome, radical dude! Anyway, Having you in my speech, French, English, & Geometry has been fun.
We've been taught an awful lot this year - but I wonder how much of it we will remember. If we
a wonderful & fun-filled Relax & forget about the test, the papers, & the imagery.

Sambone - What's shakin' cowpoke? English w/ you was Sam - Have a great summer!

 Eugene - just kidding I'll write something a little more meaningful.
 Next Year take 4 classes instead of regular classes.

FOR A GOOD TIME CALL-875-766 or 872-5864

SAM- SORRY ABOUT BASEBALL BUT KEEP TRYING I'LL SEE YA NEXT YEAR
 LATER DAVE BROOK

I really don't know you very well, which is too bad! From what I do know of you are really kinda nice! Just a tiny bit quiet (good luck on your finals) Sam

~~CLUBS~~ MET

Sam - Glad I met you this year. We've had ball w/ Mrs. Dorsey and Mr. Loggan! (Haven't we?) see you next year when we're no longer freshmen!!
 Class 92
 -Brian S.

Sam - nice to get to know you. You make Biology a little more interesting than it really is. Have a great summer. seen

Indianapolis, IN 46240
Volume 33

Here is the key to unlock the doors that open . . .

For Members Only

With a student body of over 3,000, North Central has a wide variety of people. No matter how different everyone is, or what each person becomes involved in, we come together to form one single club. A club made up of individuals from all walks of life, pursuing different goals, yet with one thing in common. We all hold the key. The key to unlock the doors to laughter, fun, spirit, friends, and good times. All the times that go along with being a part of the best high school in the state. So unlock these doors with the key that is . . . FOR MEMBERS ONLY.

What a spray! Matt Moore slaloms his way through summer on Lake Charlevoix, in northern Michigan.

"Off the beaten path," Jeff Schneeman stops for a rest with his horse.

Aloha! Seniors Krista Mart and Amy Reid attend a luau in the summer sun.

Here is the key to unlock the opportunities that are . . .

For Members Only

Entering North Central High School is the first step in taking opportunities. As a member of the student body, faculty, or administration you hold the key. There is so much to offer here and so many avenues for success. North Central has 22 organized sports, both for girls and boys, not to mention intramurals. There is an extensive and diversified curriculum, as well as over 20 clubs and organizations to become involved in. Our performing arts department has much to offer, as does the J. Everett Light Career Center. In whatever you choose to do, make the most of the opportunities that are available . . . FOR MEMBERS ONLY.

Tough guys! Rick Woodson and Eric Scruggs "chill" up against the wall in the student center.

Selena Chatman and Rolanda Stevenson, share a tray and good times in the lunch line.

Double vision? No, its twins Stacy and Shannon Gilmer walking through the hall together.

Key To Excitement Student Life

NC students certainly have found the key to excitement. School may be considered uneventful by some, but it is the time that we spend out of school that we discover the most unique and fool-proof ways of having a good time. We can be found pursuing this interest anywhere. We go to movies, dances, and parties. We try all different varieties of food. Students have been known to travel to foreign countries just for new experiences. Summer provides us with many opportunities for fun. Water skiing, traveling, and sports are favorite pastimes. Let's not forget love. What could be more exciting? Friendships are also a source of an abundance of great times. No matter what we do for fun, be it hang out, laugh, talk, or dress up, NC students know that these are the great times that are . . . FOR MEMBERS ONLY.

"This is a wheelbarrow"

Tom Pantzer, Bill Keedy, and John Hale demonstrate how not to use one.

Diana Groth with friends Amy and Laura are happy even though they are stranded in the middle of Lake Michigan.

Lonnie Weinerman is hanging on tight while tubing at Dale Hollow Lake in Tennessee.

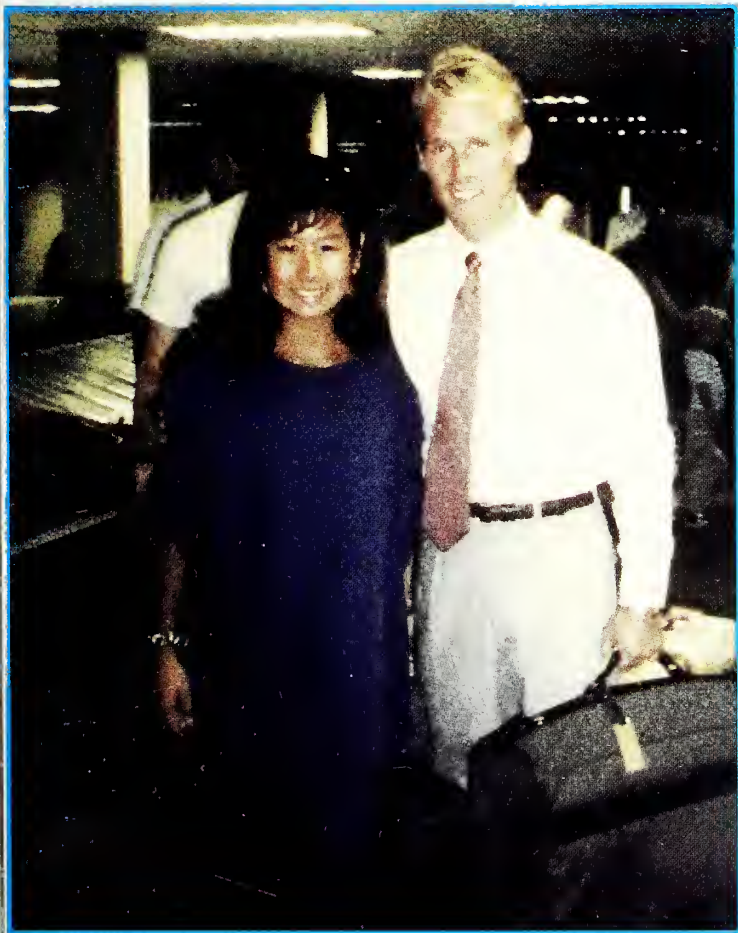

NC FUN IN THE SUMMERTIME!

Sweet, sweet summer. No matter how we spend it, whether in an exotic foreign land or just at home putting in hours at our summer job, it somehow ends up being the best time of the year. Some good ways to have a great summer are traveling, a new romance, pool parties, and laying out. Less popular choices are staying home, working, and getting poison ivy and sunburn, but even those sound appealing around exam time. So when those cold January winds blow, and tests and papers are piling up, let those summer memories come drifting back and remember that another one will come — eventually.

"We're amazing, right?" Biagio Azzarelli and Dave "Gut Buster" Boncosky demonstrate their expertise.

Yonah Hong met Bart Connor at the airport or were they traveling together?

Zoe Abdul and Holly Cunningham are hysterical while on a bus to Canada for the Scarborough Indy Peace Games for Soccer.

David and Amy Cook show their sibling love for one another while on vacation in Scotland.

"Big Ben, Parliament." Rob Huff, Rob Goeke, Bret Henry, Mike Manion, Tom Hutchinson, Kep Carmichael, Marc Quigley, Bryan Fluegal, and Scott Unison seem more interested in the camera.

Gracia-Jean Meyer along with brother Charlie pose in front of the Eiffel Tower while touring Europe.

"Hola guapo!" Mel Pettygrue and Selena Chatman make a new friend on a boat in Acapulco, Mexico.

They're seeing red. Eileen Haerle stands outside a Canadian Parliament in Ottawa, Canada with a mountie for protection.

"We won't go home!" Marla Burt and Julie Croner scream and grab onto a pole in Cologne, West Germany.

THE BEST PART WAS . . .

What better way to spend a summer than away from home? New sights, sounds, people, and places are sure to be interesting, and can make for one smashing successful time. This summer, NC students packed up and set off for a variety of destinations, including France, Germany, the Soviet Union, and Mexico. These world travelers returned to school with new friendships, knowledge and experience to enlighten the rest of us who were stuck home for the summer.

ARE WE BRAVE OR JUST LUCKY?

We love to take risks. If we see a challenge — we tackle it. We, as NCers, will do anything we set our minds on and we'll do it 'till it's perfect. From scaling mountain sides, to scuba diving to bike racing we excel at everything we try. Are we brave or just lucky? We're a little bit of both — we're brave to try such hard feats and then we're lucky we survive them! No matter what happens — we have the satisfaction of knowing we accomplished our goals and that's what NC is all about. Going after something and coming back victorious.

Lorissa Byle prays that Dusty knows the Eagle Creek Park trail by heart.

"I can't hold on much longer!" Joanne Stuart pleads while repelling at Outward Bound in England.

Jon Sweeny tries to make friends scuba diving in the deep blue sea.

"We won, we won!" The winning team for the NC Prix stands proud and tall.

The studious ones, Sarah White and Lisa McNatt "kick off their shoes" and do a little outside reading on the weekend.

Three pals, Lauren Goldblatt, Amy Gibson, and Keely Breckel hang out at the beach.

Andrew Terry, James Williams, and Bob Keedy enjoy the last days of summer at Lake Maxenkuckee.

IT'S A 48 HOUR PARTY!

For many of us, the weekend is more like a beginning than an end. In fact, we practically consider it to be the very meaning of life itself. What is it exactly that makes it so special? One thing is certain — when the 3 o'clock bell rings on Friday, a minor miracle occurs. Thousands of pulse rates speed up, smiles appear, and for the next two days, we can be found all over the place — at school functions, out on the town, at a party, or just vegging out in front of a T.V. No matter what the weekend brings for us, it is fairly certain that come Monday morning, we will already be planning for the next one.

The sun shines bright in Chi-na. The Oriental Express choir shields their eyes on Lake Taihn.

Just clowning around, Kelly McCarty, Jody Scher, Selena Miller, and Lisa Martin pose with a clown just for fun.

Would you trust these guys to clean your clothes? These two sophomores say you better or else! at Perfect Touch Cleaners.

"Welcome to True Value — May I help you?" Benji Maurer knows this line by heart.

"So, what do you want, bud?" Ryan Casterline stares down a customer while working at Hot Sam.

"Kick your legs real hard." Ruthanne Shepherd teaches children to swim at the YMCA.

SORRY, I HAVE TO WORK

No matter where it is in this city, we are behind counters, controlling cash registers, in positions of authority. In other words, we are working. For many of us, the word "work" carries many unpleasant thoughts and we're not sure if it's something we want to associate ourselves with. However, if any of us were asked we'd probably say that there are rewards and benefits — including extra cash to flash, college savings accounts and a car. So we keep slaving away with smiles on our faces — sometimes.

Cheston Roberts diligently folds sweaters at The American Eagle and stacks them on the shelves.

"So what would you like?" Mike Stewart helps his customers at O'Malia's with a bow tie and a smile.

"These aren't nuts, but I am for working here." John Payton explains to a customer at True Value.

Playing leapfrog in Quebec, some freshmen have fun the Canadian way.

Eight Is Enough! These smiling sophomores are just like one big happy family.

To show how much she cares, Kristi Field gives Nikki Martin a big hug.

FRIENDSHIP IS TOPS IN OUR CLUB

Our lives center around our friends. What would we do without them? Well, we wouldn't talk in school, we would sit at home on the weekends, we would never talk on the phone, we wouldn't ever need to borrow the car, or spend any money and we wouldn't have ANY FUN!! By now, it's clear to see why friends are a major part of our lives. That's what life is all about — friendships and love. And those go hand in hand. So next time some friends stop by, give them a big hug and thank them for making life complete.

Aren't they beautiful? Melissa Hodowal, Laura Huff, and Patti Gettys look their finest.

Trying to hang ten on one surfboard, this group of freshmen are all smiles.

Preparing for the chorus line, Abby Helmer, Sally Nicely, Lisa Vernick and a friend become closer.

JUST THE TWO OF US!

Bosom buddies, best pals, side-by-side. Girls always travel in pairs. They go to the bathroom together, (Guys hate that) they whisper and giggle about everything and they never seem to be without one another. They always know what the other is thinking just by looking at each another.

It's as though one couldn't survive without the other — and maybe that's so. After spending so much time with another person, being without them is unbearable. Without them, life is dull. The old saying still holds true — Two's company . . . you know the rest!

"We're trying to smile with food in our mouths!" Monika Gudriks and Shana Leapman huddle together for safety in the cafeteria.

Ready for the big night. Marcie Ehrlichman and Nissa Wermund prepare for a game of Putt-putt.

Holding on for support, Cindy Kendrick and her Carmel friend have time for a picture before they fall into the fountain in San Luis, Potosi.

Think Pink! Jennie Suelzer and Stephanie Hopp dress and think alike.

"Girl, did we have fun!" Jennie Leake tells April Taylor.

"We're inseparable!" Tracy Huber and Rebecca Willis are together so often they even dress alike.

"May I have this dance?" Jules Johnson is very excited that his buddy David Bowman is crowned Prom King.

Ain't love grand? Tosha Turner and Ed Bell are in love and they aren't afraid to show it.

The belle of the ball. Jenny Williams is ready to party but Waldon Thompkins isn't so sure.

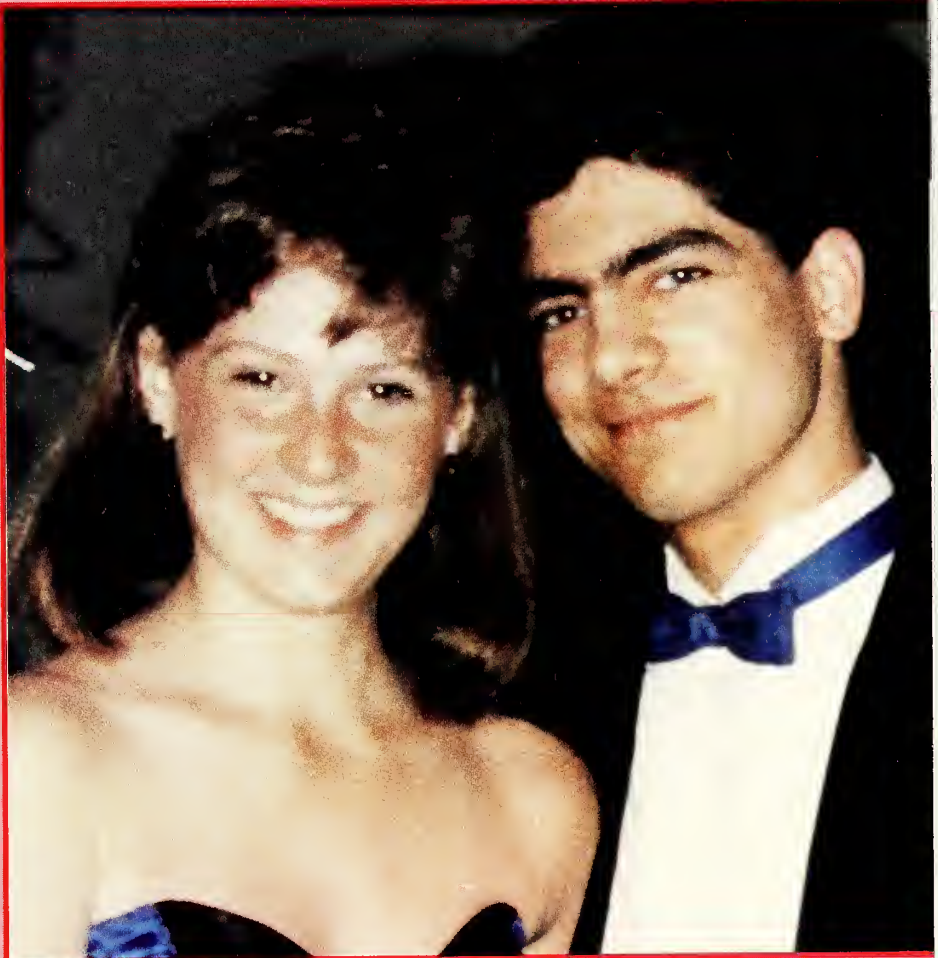

ALL WE NEED IS LOVE!

Love is everywhere, in everything we do. We see it on television, we hear it on the radio, we see it in the movies, and we share it with our family and our boy or girl friends. Therefore, it's no surprise that love is among us at school. It's fun, it's exciting and it makes us feel wanted and appreciated. Without love, life would be depressing and boring. So let's hear it for Love — it brightens our days (and nights!).

Having the time of their lives, Greg Akers and Malindi Fickle enjoy Junior Prom together.

Posing for mom, Erin Newton and Joe Mishkin get ready for a night on the town.

Nikki Williams and Mike Henderson are so happy that their love is strong.

DON'T FROWN! BE HAPPY! SMILE!

Okay! Say cheese! We love to smile! Our high school years are the best years of our lives so we tend to smile quite alot. We do so many great things, we can't help but smile because we feel so good. Smiling also works if we don't feel good, a smile can change all that!

Whether we're helping out those less fortunate than us, going on a date or just posing for the camera we're always ready to flash our pearly whites. It shows we're happy, healthy and most importantly that we have the Panther pride!

Before and after, Candy Ayers and Leslie Klein show off their domesticated skills making chocolate chip cookies.

Up in the Smokey Mountains on Mt. LaConte Laura Billingsley gets away from society.

"Nobody told me the Panther Special cost 10 cents extra!" Mike Dwyer teases the lunch ladies.

Helping the poor, Rachel Soendlin spent her summer in Tijuana, Mexico building houses with her church youth group.

Big double date at the bowling alley. Bruce Richards, Monica Gudricks, Angie Edge and her date Marco Spee from Holland have fun.

"We love the way they do it!" Beth Jones, Kristi McCoun, Corrie Utter and Caryn Clinger joke around in their favorite hangout.

Partners In Crime 3? Iiva Smith, Ron "Robert Townsend" Rice and Derek Reeves are ready for stardom.

Displaying their college sweatshirts, Greta Krueger and Dina Bleecker smile their problems away.

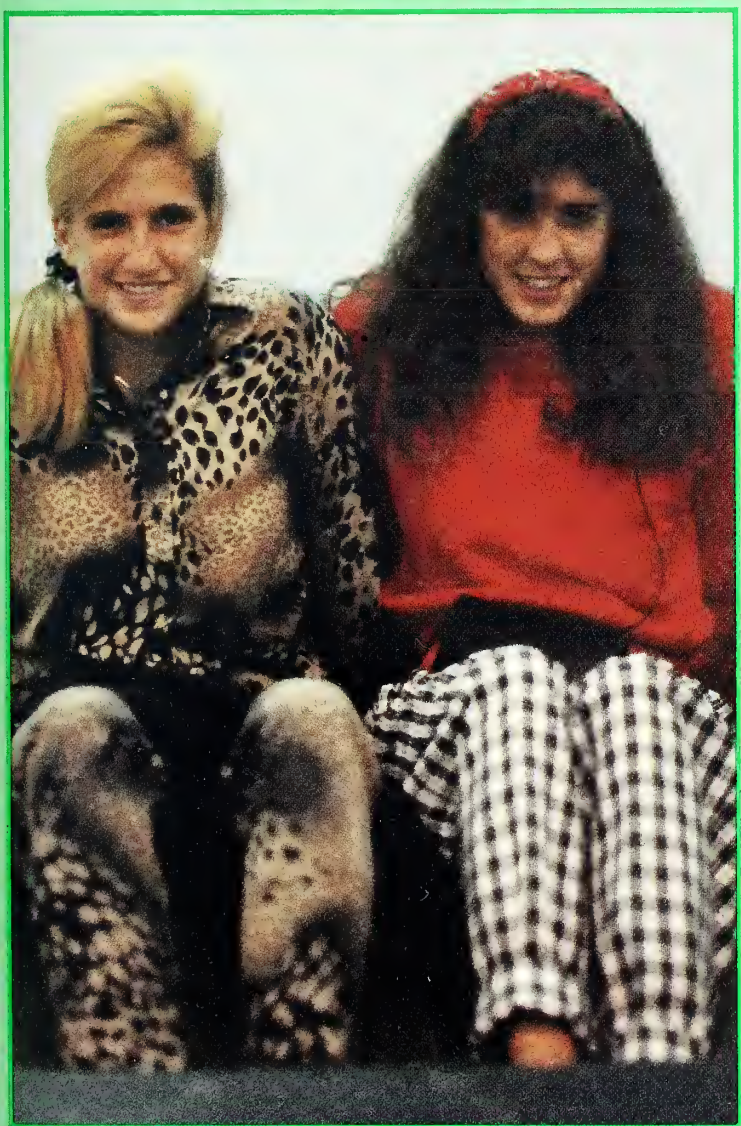

NC GOES BACK TO THE PAST.

Fashion is fast, it's always changing, going forward, leading the way. EXCEPT — what's going on now? Knee-length jeans and black leather jackets? Tye-dye shirts and bandana scarfs? Have we all gone mad and back to the past? Are we not advancing as a human race? Sure we are, but we like the past — it's interesting, fascinating, and these old styles are up-dated with the look of ... (the nineties)? So go ahead — Live for the future, but remember, dress like the past!

"Hmm, who is the best dressed?" Paul Yonover, Brennen Florey, and Keith Gibson ponder this alluring question.

Just the right accessories can make the perfect outfit. Katie Cromer, Allison Walters, Lynn Naus and Laura Cracraft are living proof.

Modeling the latest trends in fashion, Linda Goldberg and Tiffany Leaman go wild for the safari look and mad for plaid.

Getting carried away, Mindy Bepko, Amy Wheeler, Cindy Kirk, Christy White, Beth Rugh, Paige Geddes and Jill Kuykendall totally go crazy.

"Check out my pectorals!" exclaims Mark Mosher who always wondered what it felt like to be a real woman.

Bound and tied, new members are being kidnapped for counterpoints.

"Like it?" Jeremy Hess gets brave and tries out a new Russian hairstyle in Vilnius, Lithuania, USSR.

WE NEED TO JUST SAY WHOA

MTV's Rande of the Redwoods once said "Just Say Whoa". It says a whole lot. We are an elite group and we love to "Just Say Whoa" to many things. But there are some of us who "Just Say Whoa" to normalcy and totally go crazy. We have shaving cream fights and we put pillow cases over our heads. Are we insane? No! We just have fun and by "Just Saying Whoa" we say a lot about ourselves!

"Do I look convincing?" Rianne Stone practices being a statue for a fountain.

Out on a limb? Kathy Angell is caught climbing a tree at Eagle Creek Park.

Brad Evans has a shaving cream fight with little brother Kohei in Japan.

Senior Andrew McBride listens to lecture in his Learning Unlimited psychology class.

"Acting is our forte," say Marc Quigley, Jeremy Koppel, Paul Watson, and Sam Johnson, performing in drama class.

Steve Wolbert attempts to find a spot for his physics book in his locker as Jody Morrison looks on.

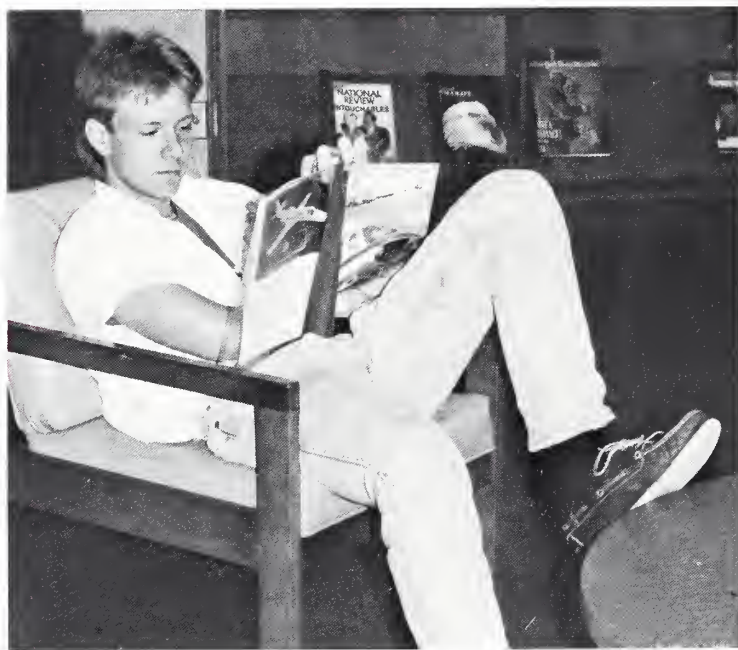

Key To Success Academics

At North Central, the key to the success of our future is in academics. The wide variety of course offerings here can provide us with the best foundation of education, either to continue on with our schooling or to enter into the job market. North Central offers six foreign languages, a diverse science program and a large number of choices in math, history and English. North Central provides an abundance of electives as does the J. Everett Light Career Center. Students can take classes in the particular fields in which they wish to pursue careers, such as broadcasting, childcare and vocational training. North Central students also have the opportunity to explore new horizons through the Learning Unlimited program. Whatever we as students choose to do here, performing well in the academics will provide us with the key to success that is ... FOR MEMBERS ONLY.

Working to be an expert journalist, Ruth Culbertson takes on the task of editor for Miss Brown's journalism class.

National Merit Semi-Finalists: Front row — Tina Icenogle, Kim Worzalla, Ron Labhart, Benji Paik, and Chipman Neidigh; Back row — Bridget Graham, Bill Capodahgli, Mike Herron, and Grantland Hillman.

Communicating!

"Everybody take four years.

out a sheet of paper. I want an essay on epic similes in Homer's Iliad."

So begins another day of English class. There is no arguing that English class requires much work on a student's part, especially now, since English is required all

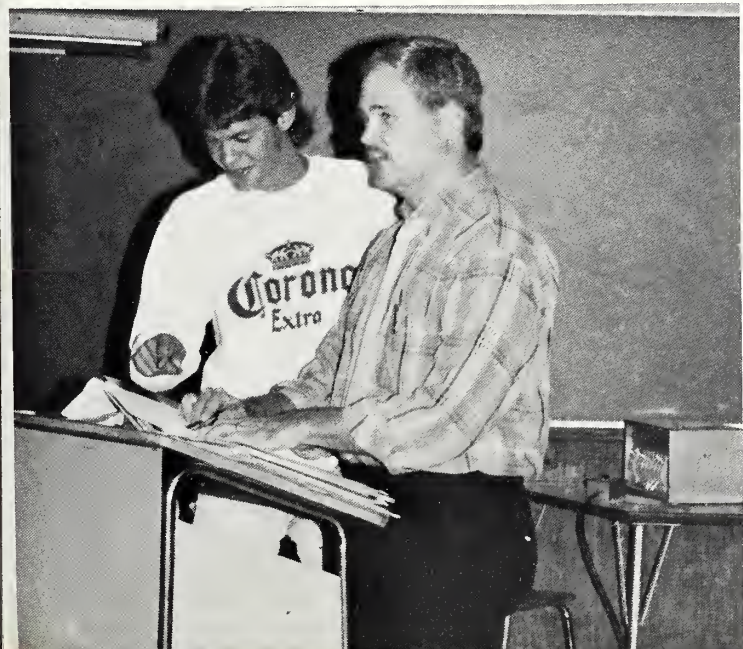

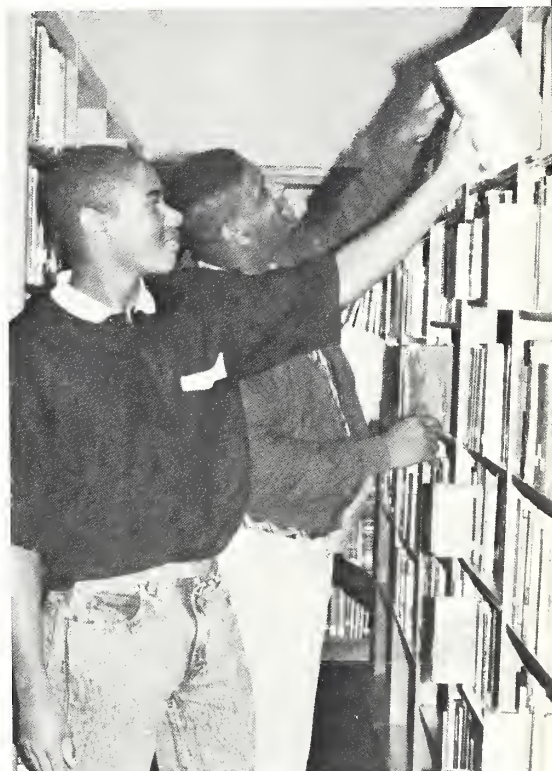

English class is certainly different from many other classes. There are no experiments to perform or formulas to memorize, and to succeed in English, one must read, think, discuss and write well.

What's the purpose of this class?

English is our native language and we should be able to express ourselves correctly and fluently. And maybe, if we study really hard, the time and effort will pay off in a few extra SAT points (something we all could use)!!!

"You should have learned this last year!" James Connors explains to Ali Bleacker the correct manuscript form to use when writing.

"You want me to pretend I'm a mule?" Senior Marc Quigley tries to change characters in Drama class.

We found it! Darryll Compton and Vernon Kittrell find the book they need for their English project.

Summing it up!

Theorems, postulates, proofs-what do all these words have in common? They are all necessary vocabulary in math. Although the mention of these words may evoke many different reactions, all students have to face at least two years of them to graduate.

"I'm so busy with complex equations that I forgot how to add $2+2$!" explains Alecia Young.

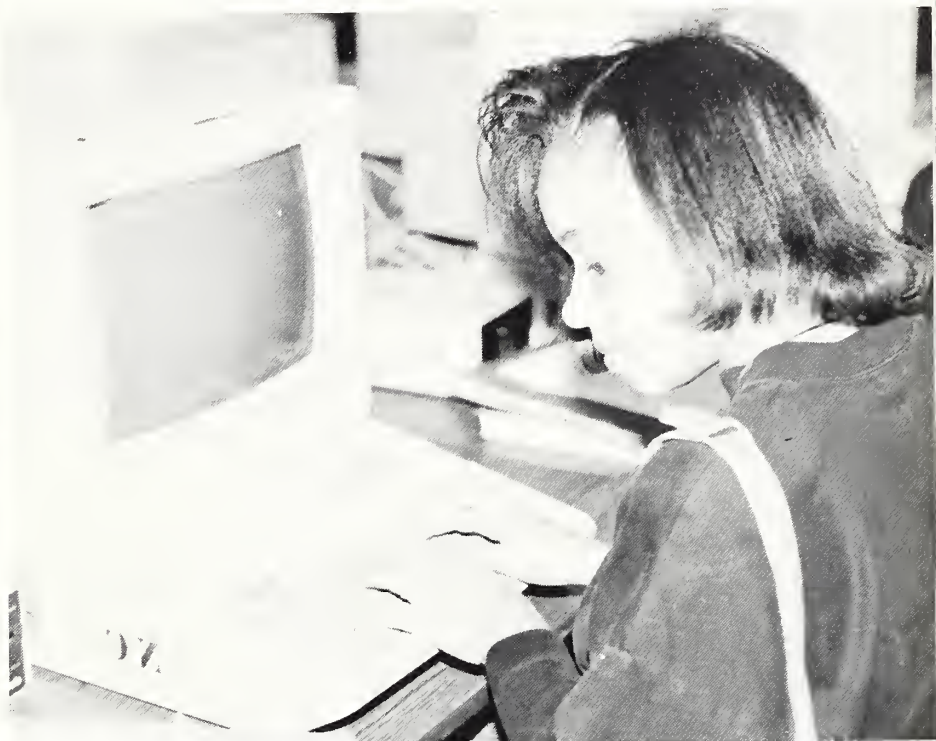

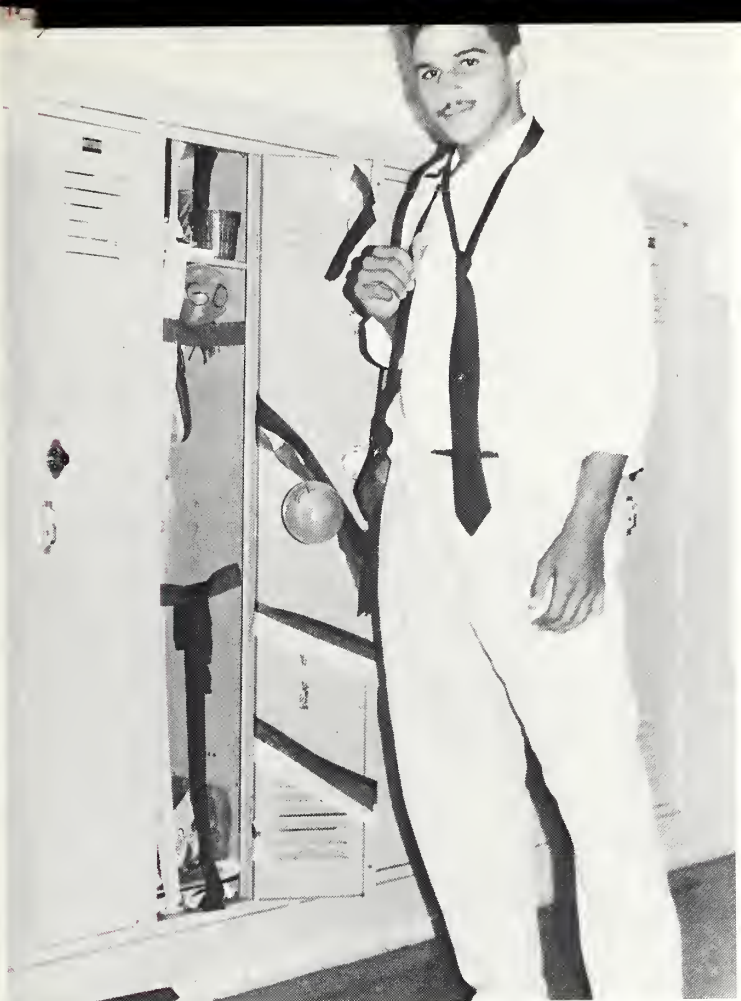

However, no matter how one feels about the subject, a sense of humor helps. As Bridget Graham says, "Math is natural, math is fun; math is best when it's $1+1$!"

Get back to work! Jerry Franklin seems to get off track while working in the computer lab.

School all year around? Dionne Smith, Myriam Kpofe, Nick Borschel, and Sadia Chaudri attend summer school at NC.

Thank God for lockers! Even the muscular Matt Simon couldn't carry all this stuff.

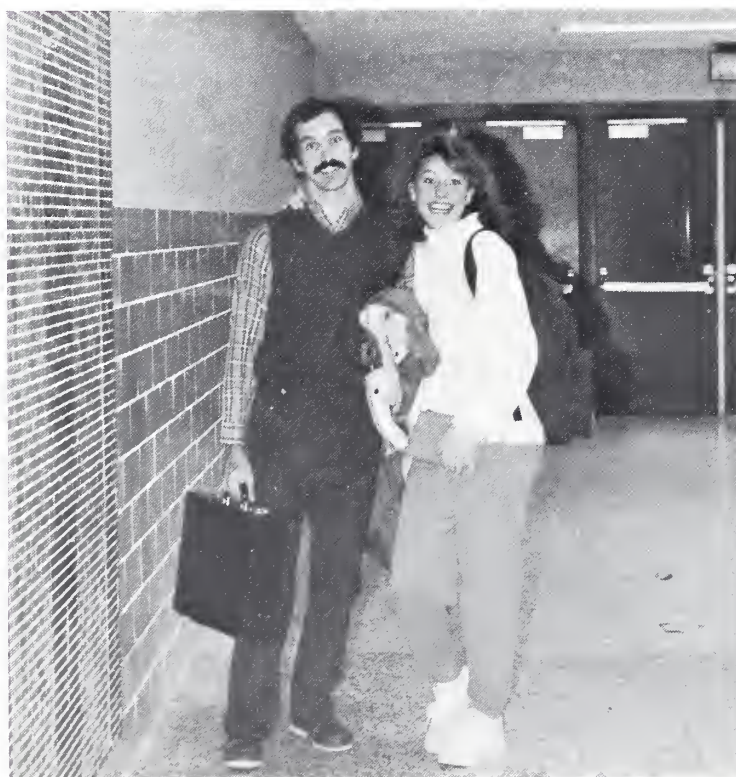

Concentrating hard is Rochelle Kirk as she tries to complete her assignment.

Please, no more! Everybody in Mr. Shadiow's math class gets to hear his "exciting" stories.

Use the smell test! Shane Cohen and Mike Henderson try to determine an unknown in chemistry.

Shhh, I'm concentrating! Diane Schuster prefers multiple choice tests over essays any day.

Aren't you late to class? Meredith Biddle takes time out to pose for a pic with her favorite teacher, Mr. Mac.

Start the stop watch!
Through labs David Gibson learns how Physics applies to every day life.

First Hand Experience

Have you ever wondered what causes that foul smell in "E" hall or what sets off the fire alarm?

The answer is very simple: SCIENCE LABS. Classes involving labs are popular among students. Labs offer a break from the usual routine; however, they are also educational.

In Biology and Zoology the "smelly" dissection of the fetal pig or cat help explain basic anatomy. The "hot" Chemistry and "moving" Physics labs illustrate principles taught in lecture.

Although labs may disturb one's senses, the experience gained is always worth while.

Having fun in chemistry,
juniors Danielle Rifkin and Yonah Hong experiment with unknown substances.

When in doubt-ask! Kim Floyd gets assistance from
Mr. Farley on Physics homework.

Past, Present and Future

The social studies department offers many activities for those interested in the history of our country and world. Required classes for NC students are U.S. History, Government, and Economics. Yet, there is a variety of electives offered: World History, Asian Studies, Contemporary World Problems, Russian History, and Psychology.

NC social students get involved outside our school. A Washington D.C. trip for the inauguration was planned. Students participated in the election by working at the polls.

Model U.N. allows students to find their own solutions to world problems through reason and compromise.

Indeed, all this has added up to be an eventful, history-making year for social studies!

Where's your pass? Greg Akers didn't slip by this hall monitor like he usually does.

During their Russian exploration, Susie Mattler and Mr. Broderick stop at the Kremlin in Pskov, Russia with a group of NC students.

Yes, it's required! You bet seniors Jenny Williams, Peter White, Paula Zelman, Joe Moore, Debbie Williamson, Mary White, and Eric Thompson will pass Government.

Without freedom of speech, Jeff Schneeman and Jason Fruits couldn't join in on the Oliver North protest.

Around the world

"French has given me an opportunity to meet people that I would not of otherwise met. It also has given me a better understanding of French culture and literature." said senior Shannon Alexander. Her statement sums up the feeling of most people in foreign language.

Whether it be French, Spanish, German, Hebrew, Chinese or Latin, most foreign language students feel their chosen language is helpful, educational and fun.

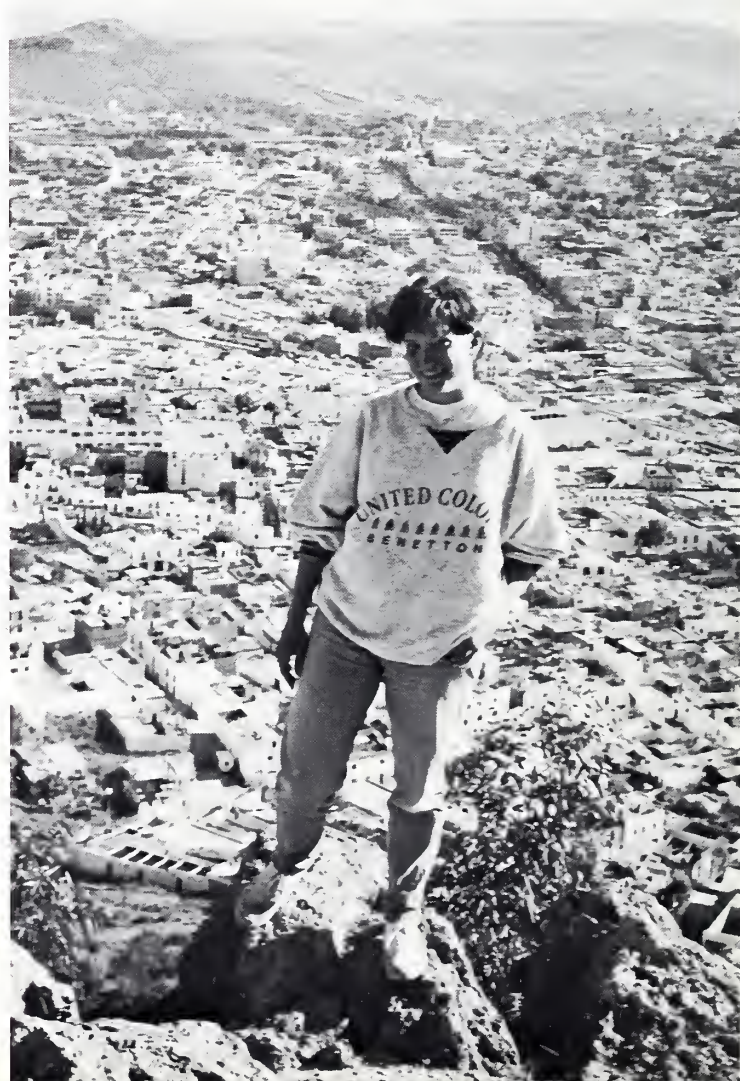

First year language classes expose students to the language and culture. Second year classes expand on the language adding grammar. Third year through fifth year teach reading and writing skills.

Many students choose to travel abroad to supplement their learning. The I.U. Honors program, as well as other exchange programs, including Lion and Rotary Club, provide opportunities to study and live in a foreign country.

Foreign language is a subject which can open many friendships across the world that might not be possible otherwise. Language can provide career opportunities too. It may be difficult at times, but language can be both fun and enriching.

On top of the world is Cindy Kendrick while she visits Mexico on the IU Honors trip.

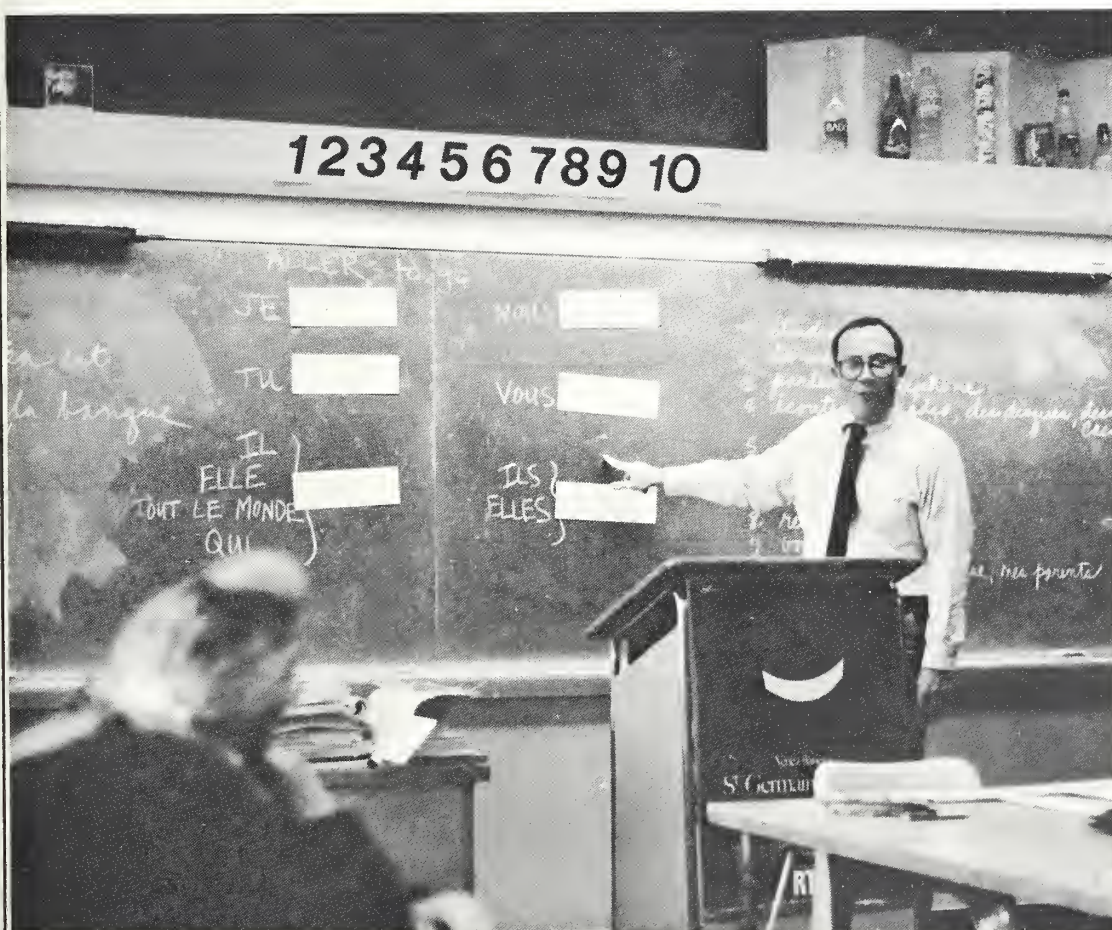

Vamos a la fiesta! Lee Ann Cravens and Vanessa Robinson practice their Spanish while working at the Spanish Festival.

This stuff seems like foreign language! Marla Kaseff dreads the SAT vocabulary.

Who knows the answer? Mr. Screes teaches his French class how to conjugate verbs.

Decisions, decisions!

A common question among high school students is, "What type of career am I interested in?" Students who find themselves asking this question often might want to check out some of the vocational classes that are offered at the J. Everett Light Career Center.

In this building, which educates about 3500 students total, one can take classes designed to train for a variety of vocational fields, ranging from cosmetology to welding to radio/TV, many of which include on the job experience.

At JELCC students can gain the practical and marketable skills that will help them determine their work field of interest.

Future advertisers Lee Ann Cravens and Rachel Bonacker discuss their designs in Commerical Arts.

Ahhh, what a sight! A class at JELCC gives students a chance to walk outside.

You're on the air! WJEL Radio and TV student Paula Zelman reports the news.

It needs more ink! Printing student Chance Mastain makes adjustments on the printing press.

Fixing the tire, this auto shop student restores the car to running condition.

What should I design?
Graphic Arts student Matt
Cruse sketches his rough lay-outs.

Is it smooth yet? Andy West, a Woods 3/4 student,
sands down the rough edges
on his project.

As a student assistant, Lori Choban gets the task of creating a display case.

Beyond the basics

Just when you thought you couldn't face another boring lecture or study hall in the halls of NC, you should realize that you don't have to. Yes, it's true — the Career Center has come to your rescue!

At the Career Center you don't find your average classes, but instead find classes that open up doors to different types of education. These classes you not only can't sleep through, but are ones you actually don't want to sleep through because their hands on activities keep you moving!

In courses such as Jewellery, Woods, Art, Graphic Arts, and Drafting the sky is the limit to creativity; that's very different in comparison to other required courses.

But whatever change of pace you desire, the Career Center will surely meet all your needs!

Future typists? Jenifer Thorpe and Nghi Huynh practice to improve their speed in typing class.

Double drawing?! Seniors Kyle and Jason Sherman sketch the same still life in art class.

While demonstrating side-stroke, Mr. Barnes explains the basic techniques to his class.

Get those feet moving! Gym assistant Todd Geyer times as the freshman boys run track.

Shouldn't you be running? Track is the least favorite unit for most P.E. students, as seen by these guys.

Freshman trauma!

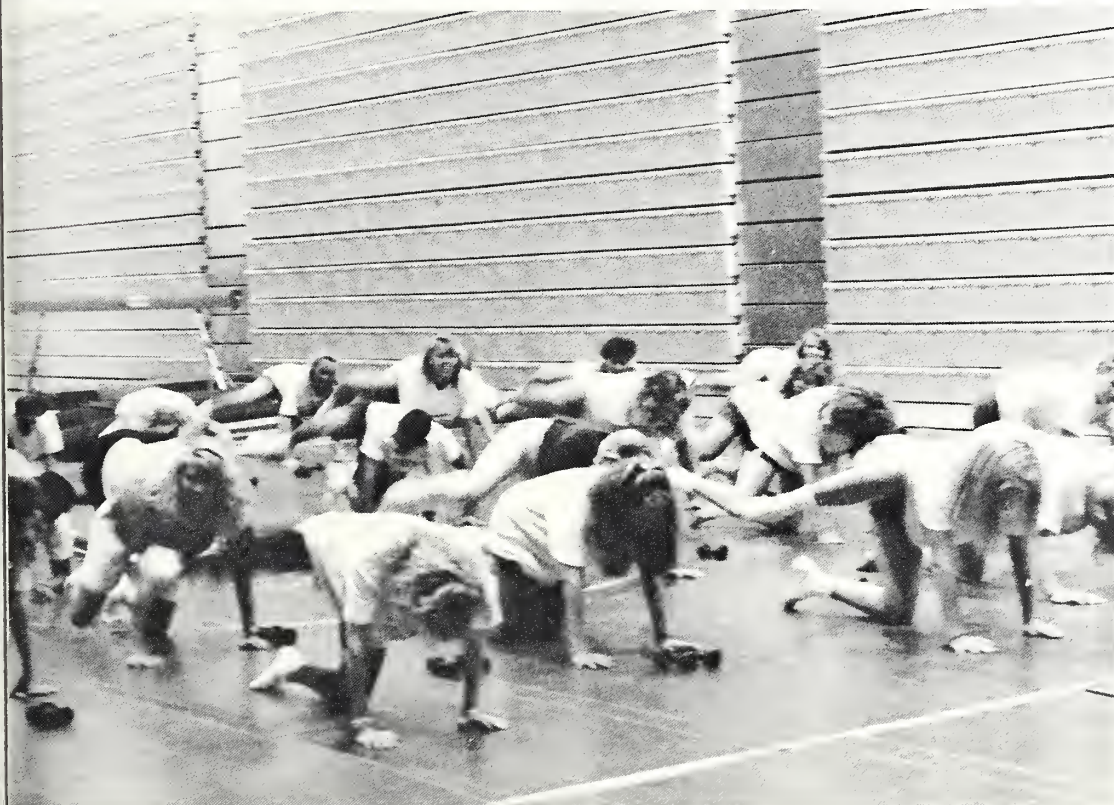

Where are you docked points for not dressing properly, forced to fix your hair in five minutes, and graded on such ludicrous things as how long you can hang from a bar? Only in a North Central P.E. class.

There are many disadvantages to having a P.E. class on your schedule, such as being in a room with about 100 screaming freshman, wearing those "high fashioned" swimsuits and toting a bag of personal supplies back and forth to school in order to look the way you did when you left the house in the morning.

However, P.E. isn't all bad. It's a break from routine. If you just bombed a test, you can take your frustration out on a volleyball (or the wimp beside you)! So enjoy P.E. — you could be sitting in a desk!

Sweat it out! These aerobic students are determined to stay in shape.

Special skills

Look out Liz Claiborne and beware Betty Crocker because we have a surprise for you! North Central offers top notch Home Ec courses. Mixed in with the books and bustle of school is a "home-like" atmosphere in lower "A" hall where items such as pots, pans, needles, thread, and sewing machines may be found.

Foods students learn how to prepare foods ranging from muffins to full square meals. Not only are they graded on labs, these students learn about table decor and nutrition.

Clothing students learn how to chose a pattern and appropriate material to match. In the spring they show off their work by putting on a fashion show.

Whether it be a necessity or for enjoyment, a Home Ec course teaches special skills that are always practical.

What a great cartoon! Eric Wacker explains to Ruthanne Shepherd how his art class helps him as a newspaper cartoonist.

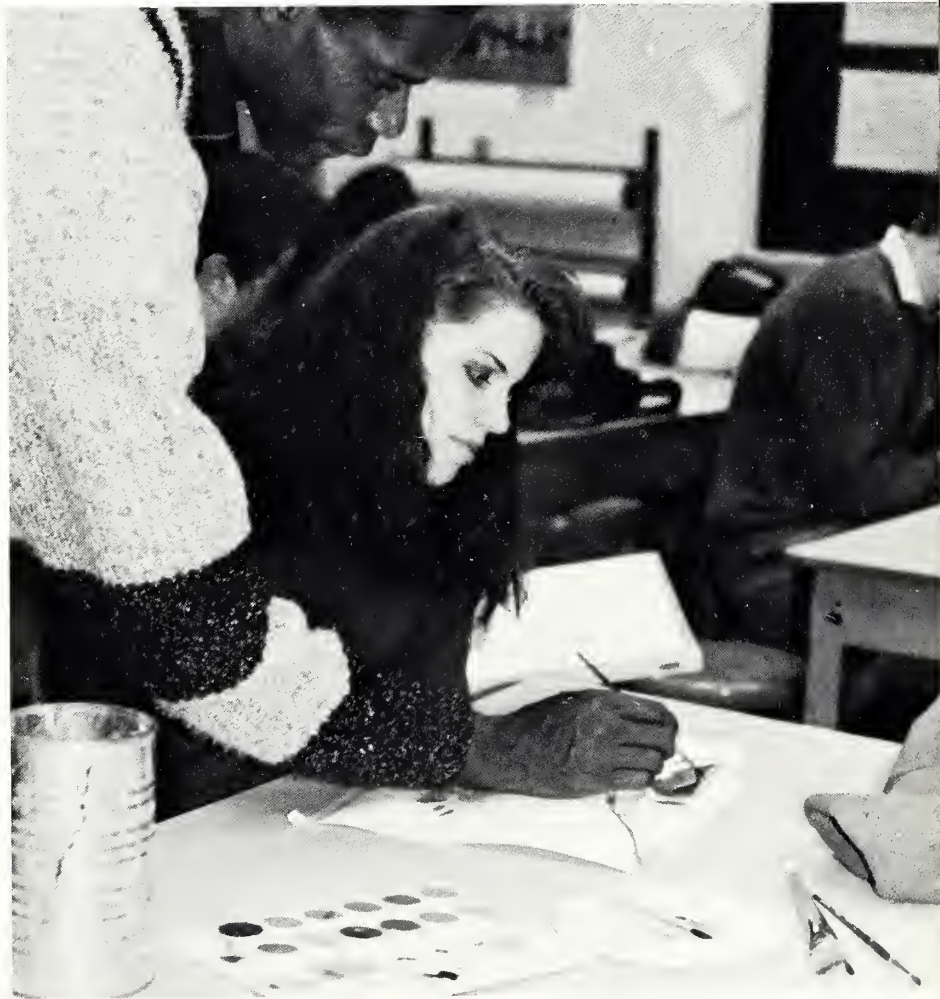

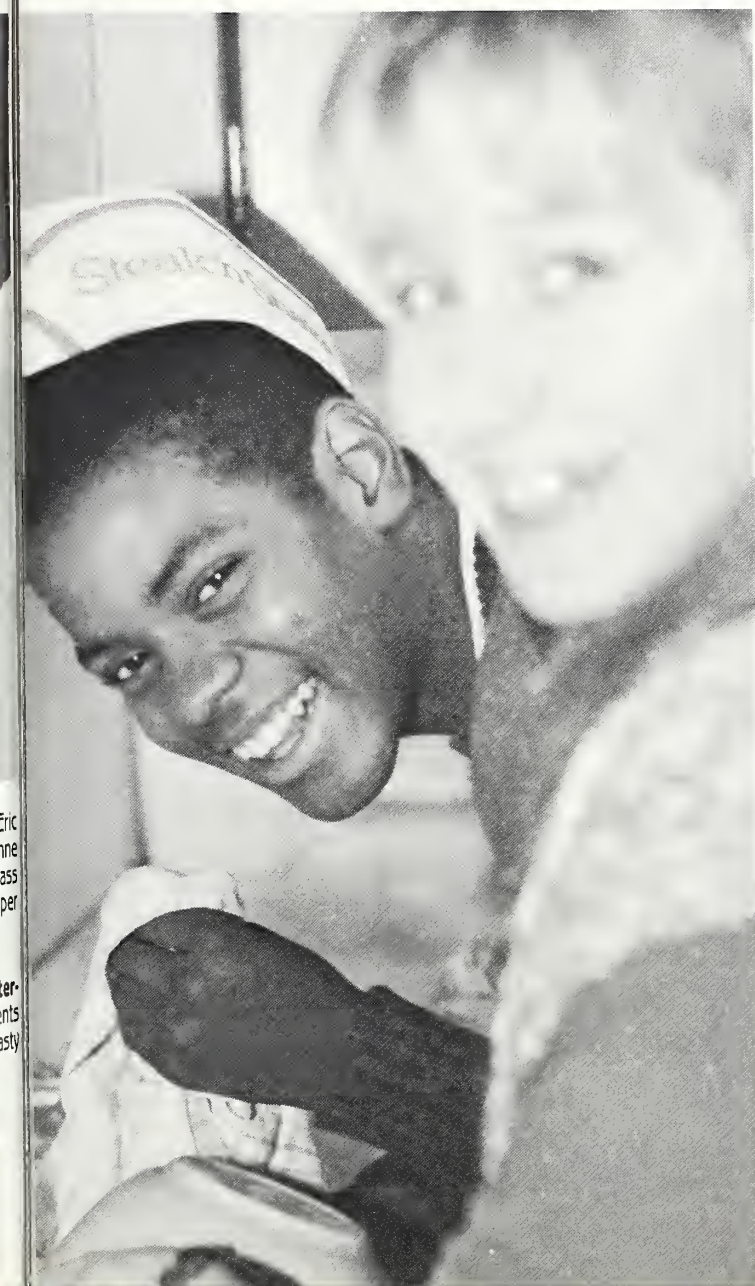

Mmmm, my mouth is watering! These Foods students learn how to whip up tasty muffins.

Too many cooks may spoil the broth while cooking, but when it's time for clean up an extra hand is always welcome!

Just a dab more of red . . . Art student Stephaine Pequinot seeks help from her teacher.

If you have to do it, why not make it fun? Washing dishes is made amusing by all Foods students.

For students who are tired of the day in, day out rigors of academic life, North Central provides another alternative — learning unlimited. This program is recommended for those who are self-motivated and responsible, since a large part of the learning in these special classes is left to the student.

The classes available range from Film Study to P.E. to World Lit. and Comp.

The most notable feature of the program is the community contract — each student is required to set up and perform at least 24 hours of community service each semester. Many find this an enjoyable part of the program instead of being a chore.

Another unique feature is the town meeting, during which several LU classes meet and talk things over, or have a guest speaker.

Yet another benefit, of course, is the LU lounge. Many people find they learn better there than in the more structured environment of a classroom. For them, Learning Unlimited could be an attractive alternative!

I need some help! LU student Rebecca McBride listens to Mike Cupp's opinion.

What a reception! The parents and students in the IB program get together to meet with teachers.

Working side by side is Tina Poulus and her mother during an IB meeting.

We hate being photographed! If looks could kill, LU students Tina Icenogle and Wyona Lynch would be charged with murder.

Quill and Scroll, Front: Sarah Stone, Paul Yonover, Lee Ann Cravens. Back: Marla Burt, Bret Wilhoite, Jim Calhoun.

International Baccalaureate, a program begun in 1962 in Switzerland, has now been incorporated into the curriculum of NC.

The courses taken prepare the students to take examinations which are similar to the advanced placement tests. If all six of the tests are passed, the student earns the IB diploma.

Aside from the "x" classes, IB students are required to take 3 semesters of Economics and a new 4 semester course, Theory of Knowledge, comparable to the elective Critical Thinking. The opportunity is also given to work and use NC's expert faculty members as mentors.

Other features of the program include required service activities and an extended essay worked on for 3 of the last 4 semesters of high school.

The first class of IB candidates will be graduated in 1990. Faculty and participants are optimistic about the success of the program.

Professor Harold Hill (Clark Zimmerman) enters the little town of River City, Iowa in the fall production, "The Music Man."

Curb Service practices before performing at N.C.'s homecoming dance. The band won Woodstock to receive this honor.

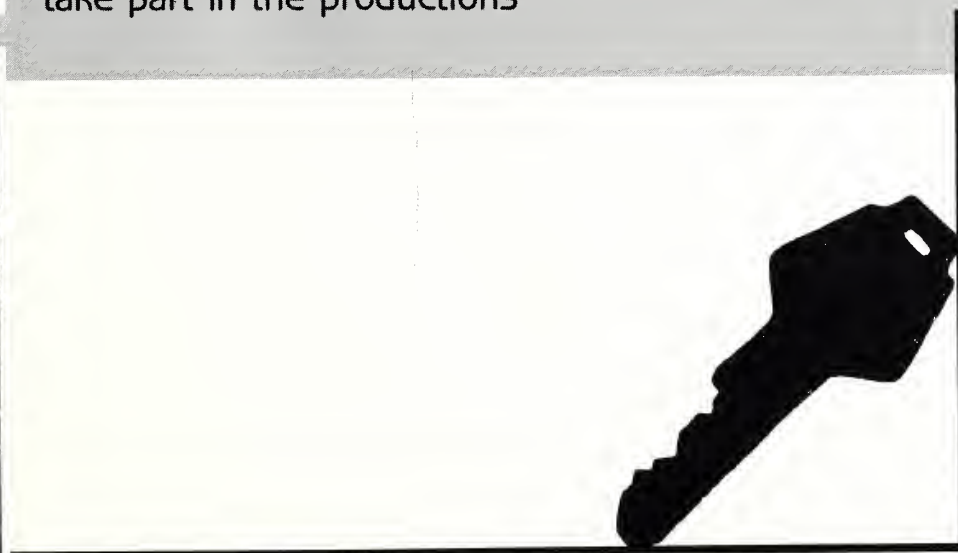

Say Ah! Kelly Shrewsbury often gets confused between the doctor's office and the choir room.

Key To The Stars Performing Arts

The performing arts department at North Central is the key to the stars. Whether you are a participant or a member of the audience there is a certain thrill involved with an N.C. production. The plays put on here involve so many people. There are spots for singers, dancers, actors, musicians, and those who prefer to remain behind the curtain. But, one doesn't have to take part in the productions to be a part of the performing arts department. N.C. has many choirs, orchestras, bands, and dance and flag corps. From Madrigal dinners to Repertory Theater to band concerts, there is something for everyone. Whether participating in or just enjoying the entertainment of N.C. performing arts, there are many opportunities . . . FOR MEMBERS ONLY.

"76 Trombones"

By Kelli Shrewsbury

A musical spectacular is the only way to describe North Central's 1988 fall production. A talented 62 member cast presented Meredith Wilson's traditional 1912 musical, "The Music Man." It's the story of Harold Hill, Clark Zimmerman, a fast-talking con artist, who tries to swindle the stubborn lowans of River City into financing a boy's band that he doesn't have the knowledge to lead. Even the bumbling Mayor Shinn, Eric Thompson, and his wife, Eulalie, Marin Venturi, are taken in by Harold's scandal. With the help of Hill's best friend, Marcellus, Andy Cobb, the plan is almost a success until Harold falls in love with the town's pristine librarian, Marian, Kelli Shrewsbury. A jealous salesman, Charlie Cowell, Jon Sweeney, informs the town of the truth, turning them against Harold. He is soon forgiven, and the town is joined by NC's flag corps and marching band for the rollicking rendition of "76 Trombones."

Confident in his plan, Professor Harold Hill, Clark Zimmerman, explains to Marcellus, Andy Cobb, that his idea for a boy's band is a 'sure thing'.

Calling for the swine, Heather Smith and Eric Putnam, sing a whimsical duet as they peep through the "American Gothic" picture frame.

"There's trouble right here in River City", explains Clark Zimmerman to interested townies: Ron Greene, Robin Rodenberg, Kirsten Blase, Jessica Hall, Cam Andrews, and Jon Sweeney.

River City locals: Mary White, Heather Smith, Luther Creek, Gabe Corbin, Iiva Smith, Angela Plank, Eric Hagstrom, Jessica Hall, Andy Cobb, Elaine Miller, and Eric Thompson, contemplate the results of Harold Hill's band.

Words About Rep

I find being in Repertory Theatre exciting because (theoretically) you get a chance to work with the best N.C. has to offer. It gives students a unique chance to expand their abilities after Drama I and II if they pursue it.

Rep First Views

I was really scared my first week of Rep., but then I saw how easy going everything is in there. The atmosphere makes it easy to experiment and try new ideas. Everyone pulls for you and helps you work out problems with your projects. It's neat to be with such talented people and not feel competition with them. It's great!

Jenny Williams, 12

Bright lights, thunderous applause and good friends are the attributes which attract people to the performing arts department. Performing arts is a great way to get involved and entertain others. North Central offers something for everyone. No matter what one's interest might be, there is a division of the arts that can satisfy a person's desires. Choirs, orchestras, concert bands, theatre groups, and dramatic productions are several ways in which a performer can practice and demonstrate his talents. Someone who is interested in the performing arts must be able to make a commitment to many rehearsals and performances, but people who are involved believe it is Counterpoints takes a lot of hard work, dedication, energy, and time — but I absolutely love it! Not only do you make good friends, but also a sense of pride. It's great to do a good job at a show or competition after you've worked hard for it. It is really a great experience and yes, we DO sing wherever we go!

The great thing about King's Court is that you learn more than just the correct way to sing. Everyone is equally important to the choir as a whole. I've learned the importance of working in an ensemble, as well as what a significant effect dedicating yourself 100% to a project can be.

North Central offers many ways for students to create beautiful music. The Freshman, Concert, and Symphonic Orchestras provide ways for students to become involved and express their creative talents. Many of them enjoy the break in their day to relax with their instrument and strive for a different kind of personal excellence and satisfaction. The experience provides them with a cultural background that they will never forget.

Key To Involvement Organizations

North Central has over 20 organized clubs and activities, so it is obvious that the key to involvement is through organizations. There are opportunities to become active in student government in all grade levels. Students can help others through P.U.S.H. and Key Club. Whatever your interests are, there is a group at N.C. for you. There are clubs for science, history, and foreign languages. Several organizations at N.C. recognize the achievements of student such as: National Honor Society, foreign language honor societies, and Quill and Scroll. Even if one doesn't have the chance to become a member of one of N.C.'s clubs, there are still opportunities for him to enjoy the benefits of these organizations. The groups at N.C. are responsible for putting on many activities that everyone can participate in. So, it is important for all to join a club at N.C. or to share in the activities that are ...

Head of the class

What a year of planning, cooperation, and success! This year the Junior and Senior Class Councils met frequently, in and out of school, to accomplish their goals. Councils used leadership skills to run an organized session. Leadership Camp also taught skills of leadership as well as build council unity.

"Senior Class Council has given me a great sense of leadership and responsibility that I will be able to use throughout my life," says Senior Mike Senn.

Junior year is always hectic and filled with several major events: Spec, Prom and community service projects. The year began with the selection of the Prom band and place.

"We're all pepped up; we're dealing with the two major events within students' high school life. We've focused much attention on Prom and Spec to make sure these events are near perfect," says Junior President Jill Hardin.

Not only did the juniors work for themselves, social action projects were a big part of the year.

Senior year, too, is action packed involving the Senior Bonfire, canned food drive, blood drive, and Grad Dance.

The Seniors worked hard to make sure the can drive and blood drive were well attended events. Plenty of time was also devoted to making decisions for graduation. The council selected a Commencement speaker and organized the GradDance/Blast Off, which marked the close of their senior year.

Great Way To Start

Starting out at a new school can be difficult, but one way this is made easier is by class council. The Freshman Class Council, sponsored by Mrs. Marsh, and the Sophomore Class Council, sponsored by Mr. Stahl, help plan many different activities to bring the classes together and make North Central a more interesting and exciting place.

The Councils plan the class parties and mixers to provide students the opportunity to get involved. Additionally, the sophomores are given responsibility to pick the class ring.

Twenty-five members are elected from each of the classes at the beginning of the year by their fellow students. Then the councils vote on their officers whose responsibility is to plan and organize the different activities.

The councils take an active part in the service to the school such as the can food drive, new student and freshman orientation (Panther Pals), and helping to decorate the student center for Homecoming. Often the councils will enter competition against the other class councils.

As Greta Krueger, a former member of sophomore class council said, "It gave me a feeling that I was a part of planning the year's activities."

Although there are four thousand students at North Central, the Freshman and Sophomore class council help bring together their respective classes in a spirit of cooperation and enthusiasm.

Decorating the student center can be fun as this Freshman Class council member is finding out.

Starting Off With a Bang!

The level of enthusiasm created by last years Presidential election was carried into Student Council this year. They set out to create new activities and improve upon those activities usually sponsored.

The year started off with a bang at the first annual Woodstock Revival and the September Homecoming. Student Council then worked through the resignation of President Colin Forsyth to hold the Panther Post, Balloons for Peace, and the Special Extravaganza.

Plans were also formulated for a second Homecoming, N.C. Prix, and a Winter Fest. The officers, Paul Yonover, Andy Cobb, Walden Thompkins and Alison Matsumoto worked to involve North Central in community projects designed to help the people and earth of our world.

The main goal of Student Council was to dispose of usual routine to plan creative activities to boost the spirits and involvement of the student body.

Word Power!

The Speech and Hoosier Spell Bowl teams both work hard through out the year to prepare for their interscholastic competitions.

The speech team has won sectionals several years in a row and has qualified many people to the national speech tournament. Students compete in several different areas including poetry, impromptu, extemporaneous, and original oratory. The meets are held most Saturday mornings where ribbons are given to the best speakers. Anyone may attend speech meets and be on the speech team.

The spell bowlers attend spelling bees where each team member spells a certain amount of words. The teams with the highest scores advance to the next level.

Both teams attempt to bring recognition to our school through their endeavours. They practice their skills to do the best job they can and they give their best effort.

Speech team officers Secretary Pai-ling Yin, President Jason Fruits, Vice-Presidents Maseer Bade and Tanya Marsh work throughout the year to insure team success.

Mental Power!

The Academic Decathlon and Brain Game teams at North Central have a history of success. In the three previous years of competition in Academic Decathlon we have won the state championship twice. In Brain Game we have been champions several times and have retired the tournament trophy once.

The Brain Game hosted by Bob Gregory on Channel 13 is a quick recall quiz show that all area High schools can participate in. This year the team lost in the second round to defending Champion Seccina by two points. The T.V. team consisted of four seniors, led by captain Jason Fruits they included Maseer Bade, Ryan Gavigan and Lee Freeman.

The academic decathlon team consists of three "a", three "b" and three "c" students who take tests in history, math, english, economics, art, science, and give speeches, write essays and are interviewed. Awards are given out on an individual and team basis.

North Central's Academic Superstars

Most classes at North Central are not easy; students who work hard and study are rewarded with membership in honor societies. National Honor Society and the different language societies are composed of those who have achieved excellence and wish to help others become successful.

Membership in National Honor Society is achieved by maintaining a 3.2 grade point average and by receiving 4 merits from their teachers during their high school career. Language Honor Society membership is obtained through superior work in language classes.

After electing officers, the different honor societies work to set up tutoring programs to help other students who have problems in certain subjects. They also attempt to organize different activities they can participate in together, such as group T-shirts and parties.

We are the World!

This year the Foreign Language clubs: Latin, French, and Spanish have sponsored fieldtrips and events to expand their understanding and knowledge of different world cultures.

The Latin club, headed by President Joe Mishkin, was continually on the move. North Central was well represented at Butler's annual Latin Day celebration. The club also participated in the Charriathon, racing against other central Indiana clubs. It was all topped off with the Latin Banquet at Beef and Boards.

Ah, it is time for a Fiesta, a common slogan said by Spanish club members. In order to better understand the Spanish culture, the club attended a Spanish play, La Casa de Bernarda Alba, and of course ate Mexican food. Eating became a big Spanish club theme; fiestas were planned and well attended.

The central theme for the French club was better understanding of French life by sampling French food and conversing with French people. In the fall, Chef Jean Pierre, demonstrated the fine art of French cuisine. In December, Geraud Broussaud, a foreign exchange student from France, taught popular French slang to club members.

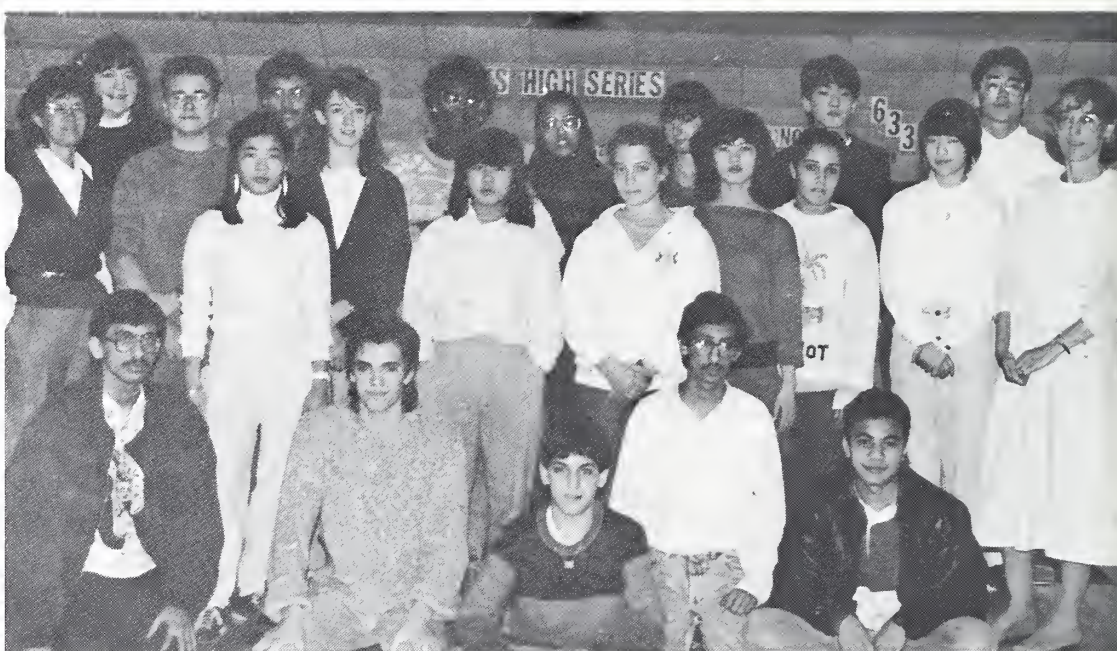

Dedicated to Spanish culture, Spanish club members become culturally enriched after seeing La Casa De Bernarda Alba.

A Foreign Defense

Foreign Language is America's best defense. North Central tries to overcome the foreign cultural gap through their extensive foreign language program.

The main aim of the Hebrew Club is to better understand foreign policy and cultural conflicts in the Middle East. Usually over bagels, the Hebrew club discusses Israeli life and America's influence upon Israeli politics.

The Chinese language has very recently become a language necessary in foreign business affairs. Over 1 billion people speak Chinese. Students in Chinese Club hope to better understand the language and culture by assessing their knowledge in the world.

The German Club was fortunate enough to host students from West Germany. German students received an accurate account of American life in contrast to life in Germany.

Lastly, the International Club is a conglomeration of all people coming from different world nations. The club sponsored events to better acquaint themselves with American customs and pastimes.

Being Involved Pays Off

North Central represents a large, diverse community; some students may be swallowed by its enormity. Clubs try to combat this obstacle by obtaining a new focus: support and help for others.

Key club is a social-action organization sponsoring activities to better and help the lives of others. In the beginning of the year, Key club helped the victims of hurricane Gilbert by gathering food, clothes and books to send to blind children in a Jamaican school. In addition, members gathered cans to give to the needy during the holiday season.

P.U.S.H. is an organization of students who strongly oppose drug abuse and, in turn, visit community elementary schools to discuss the evils of drugs.

The Jr. Historical society was dedicated to stimulate the interests of Indiana history among NC students. The club researched NCHS athletics and the Governors of Indiana in a slide and tape show.

The New Student club is for those who might feel "lost in the crowd". They attended social events to feel more comfortable in their new environment.

The Chess club is an organization dealing with the training of the mind. The club meets very regularly to improve their skill and technique.

BSU Builds Student Unity

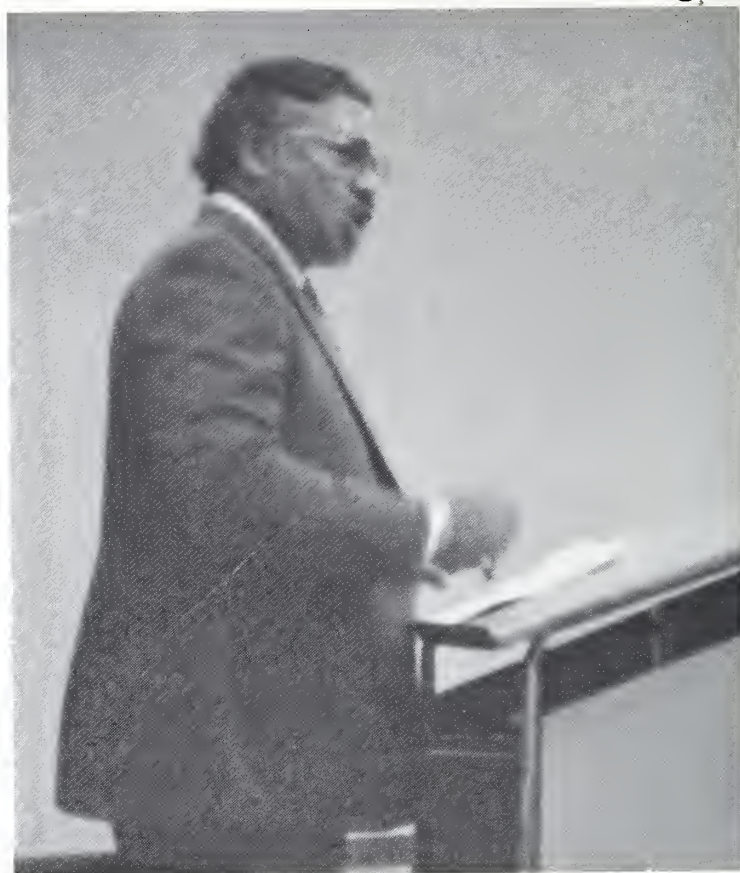

North Central's chapter of Black Student Union has taken on a new focus this year, in addition to its traditional events. Along with the planning of the BSU fashion show, and annual mixer, BSU has taken part in planning the future of its many members. The club has devoted time to help members sort through the college chaos.

Mr. Henry Bundles, a speaker from the Center for Leadership Development, spoke to BSU about the various post high school options and the importance of making decisions and setting goals.

The club was active during Black History Month. They planned an awareness week recognizing minority figures and their achievements.

One important goal of BSU was to Build Student Unity. Vice President Jill Hardin says "We want the focus of BSU to be multicultural not just for black students."

What a year! The BSU club officers smile proudly! Front Row: S. Johnson, J. Hardin, L. Henry Back Row: T. Graham, S. Mitchell, T. Johnson, J. Terrell

"If you don't know you, then it's hard to answer this question, Where am I going?" Mr. Henry Bundles speaks at a BSU meeting.

The BSU members look pensive as they listen to the words of Mr. Bundles.

The Biological Scope

This year the Biology Club has added new dimensions, reached new heights, and has learned more about reptiles. In what other club would you expect a herpetologist, one who studies reptiles, to come in and flaunt living reptile specimens? Only the Biology Club! They took several field trips to learn more about science and science phenomenon.

In October, the club took its annual trip to Blue Springs Cavern. At Blue Springs, the members crawled through the tiny space carrying flashlights, to find their way in the dark. When they reached the end, the students were covered with mud and other remnants of the cave. But did the members have fun? The general feeling seemed to be yes!!

The Biology Club members have the best of both worlds: they are able to learn about their world while having fun doing it.

Say animals! The Biology Club smiles as they flaunt their snakes and bones.

What an expedition! the Biology Club explores Blue Springs Cavern.

Pals, Poets, Politics

At a school the size of N.C. there are many different activities for the the variety of our student body. Some of these activities include Secret Pals, Letter Club, Model UN and Etchings in Thought.

Model United Nations consists of student formed teams who select, then research a country they represent in a mock UN assembly. Student written resolutions are discussed and debated between the "country" teams from various area high schools. Mr. Broderick is the faculty coordinator for our school.

Etchings in Thought is a journal of student written works. A board of students is selected to review and select the literature to be used each year. This publication reflects the creativity and talent hidden among the student body. Mrs. Libby serves as the faculty sponsor.

Secret Pals and Letter Club both are involved with athletics. The pals decorate lockers and give gifts to athletes to boost morale and spirit before games. They also present each player with a memory scrap book at the awards banquet, held for every sports team. The letter club consists of varsity letter winners who meet and plan activities throughout the year. These two clubs recognize the achievement and importance of North Central athletics. The athletic director, Roland Inskeep, is the sponsor.

Armed & Ready

JROTC provides a unique opportunity for N.C. students to learn important leadership qualities while getting a head start on training for the armed forces. Described as a "modified service," the Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps is for any student at N.C. interested in joining one of the armed forces; or, learning valuable organizational, leadership, and disciplinary skills.

Although students do learn marksmanship and participate in drills and ceremonies, they must also meet in the classroom several times a week. Military history is focused on, though many areas are covered. What makes JROTC unique from other classes is that experienced seniors teach their younger peers.

Through JROTC members have many special benefits. Four clubs related to the class are: Drill Team, Color Guard, Reondo, and Rifle Team. Many graduates of JROTC are able to begin at a higher level when they enter one of the armed forces.

N.C.'s JROTC has much to offer. As Kim Grooves says, "It has motivated me to join the air force." While Colonel Hallinan, who heads up the program, finds it encourages high school students to be good Americans.

JROTC cadet Jason Ridpath marches in step.

Standing at attention is always important!

Jason Corbin and Thomas Tebault march in step with their fellow cadets.

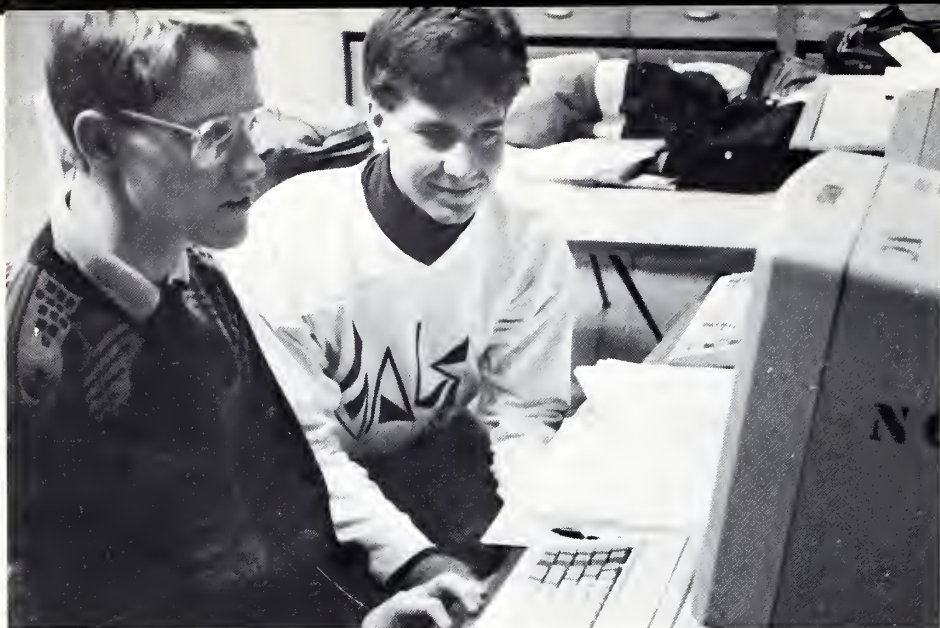

Jason Corbin stands at attention and awaits further orders from his superior officers.

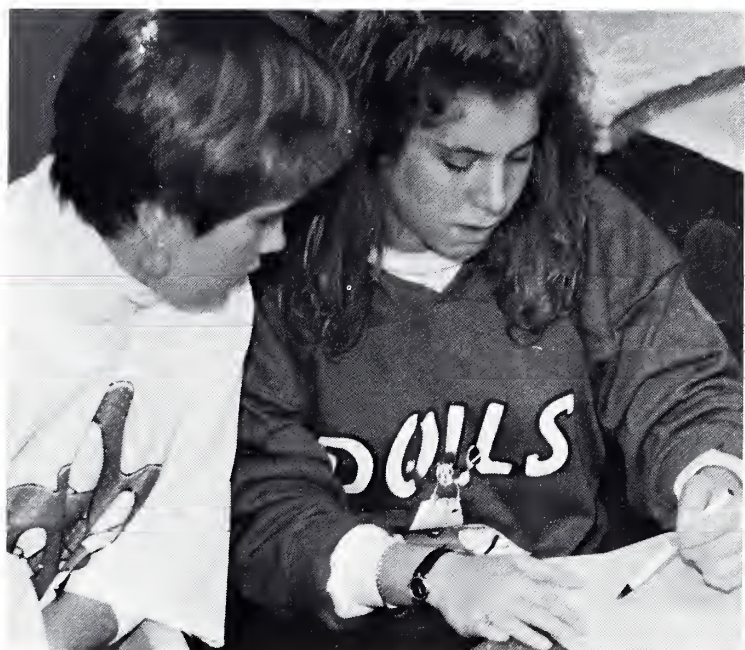

JROTC cadets must march and practice their military skills daily to remain sharp.

Colonel Hallinan, director of JROTC, is always busy running the program.

New Modern Technology! Sports editors Jeremy Glowacki and Jim Pearce use the computer.

Paul Jaskunas and Bridget Graham type in their news story to meet the deadline.

Working Hard! Editors Sara Stone and Jami Brodey discuss another page.

Photographers Ed Yee and David Boncosky show editor Becky Kasper how to develop.

With enthusiasm, Dina Bleecker and Greta Krueger do a Performing Arts layout.

All Work No Play

"Being an editor gives you a large sense of satisfaction. You learn things like delegating responsibility, meeting a deadline, and managing your time. Plus, it's a lot of fun," says Album editor Becky Kasper. Becky's quote seems to sum up the feeling of serving on a publication.

Beginning with Journalism camp and ending with deadlines, the staff must work hard to complete the finished product. Both the newspaper and the annual require dedication.

The Northern Lights informs the student body through six different sections each headed by a different editor. Editor in Chief, Caroline Coons, oversees the publication verifying that deadlines are met.

Work on The Northerner begins in the summer. A theme is selected, layouts designed, and copy written to complete the book.

Reaching a deadline means work, but as the staff says, "It's worth the reward."

Can we crop our faces? Jon Sweeney, Scott Theisen and Jeremy Glowacki play with a yearbook gadget.

Tag Team News, Editors Pat Mulry, Caroline Coons, Paul Yonover and Tanya Marsh attempt to put together another paper.

Going for the goal, senior Zoe Abdul prepares for the kick.

State champions, Hema Gupta and Robyn Vannatta stop for water in the state final match against Homestead.

Practicing his chipping, junior Brian Jacobson has a perfect stance.

Key To Victory Sports

At North Central High School, sports means victory not only for the participants, but also for the spectators. Whether it's baseball, basketball, volleyball, track, tennis or any other sport, freshman, reserve, or varsity, we go at it with the spirit of true competitors. If we didn't, how could we have so many wins to our name? We have 31 state championship trophies, as well as individual state champions and team members who have been elected to All-State teams. All this success and the excellence of our athletic participants make each game, match, meet and event an excitement to watch. NC spectators are winners, too. We wear school colors, paint our faces, scream and cheer in support of our athletes. No matter where we play or who wins the game, the victory of North Central's sports are . . .

FOR MEMBERS ONLY.

Diamond crew tops records

Bret Wilhoite —

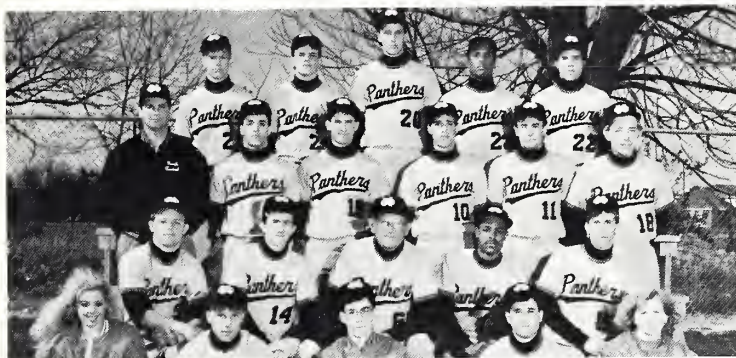

In a season that the coaching staff thought would be a dismal one by North Central standards turned out to be a "pleasant surprise". Coach Bradley and the rest of the coaching staff were quite pleased with the outcome of the season.

The team recorded the sixth best record in NC history going 22-8. The team managed to tie or break six team records and the ones that were broken were actually shattered. For instance, the old record for hits in a season was 269, the new record now stands at 283. Records also broken were doubles in a season, total bases, and extra base hits in a season.

Leading the Panthers throughout the season was All-Stater John Smith. Smith was not only MVP for the Panthers but also for the entire state.

Girls place in top four

Bret Wilhoite —

The Panthers did it once again. The softball team came within one step of becoming the first true girls' team sport state champion ever at North Central.

Led by senior Shannon Black and junior Amy Timble, the Panthers were able to win 25 games. The Panthers also captured the Marion County Championship. The offensive punch was provided with Timble and others getting on base and then Black driving them in. Throughout the season Black set nine new records including hits, batting average, RBI's, triples, homeruns, and total bases.

The Panthers also had a very solid defense. With pitchers like Patti Borches and Jennifer Hoagland, and the fielding of Amy Schnaiter, the team could not lose.

The future also looks bright for the team with many varsity players returning in addition to the strong showing of the reserve/freshman team.

Running Success

Greg Akers —

By going undefeated during the regular season, reigning as county champs and winning sectionals, the boys' track team continued its tradition of success.

Coached by Charles Riley, the team dominated nearly every meet of the regular season. The impressive showings were made possible by a combination of above average talent and a good blend of leadership and youth.

After an impressive victory in the county meet and breezing through the sectionals, the Panthers finished fourth in a tough regional.

All in all the boys' track team compiled yet another excellent season to add to the many others. Led by Philip Boyd in low hurdles, Brent and Brian Ellis in distance events, Rob Meadows in the pole vault, Kevin Brown in high jump, and David Bowman in sprints, the Panthers worked hard all season showing the true qualities of NC athletics.

Tradition

Jim Pearce —

Coming into the season, the North Central girls track team knew the going would be tough. After winning the state title, the Panthers lost senior star Maicel Malone to graduation.

Early in the season, everyone considered the team weak, but this group had something to prove. Led by seniors Kim White and Karen McDaniel, the Panthers blasted through their first few meets. "We all supported one another no matter what," stated sophomore sprinter Anisa Evans.

This team was not done. They continued their pace by winning the county, sectional, and regional meets.

Now came the test. Could they fare well in state without Malone?

Yes, they could and did. The 4x100 relay team of Evans, Breck Mosley, Cindy Dobbs, and Michelle Carpenter captured the state title. Other strong finishes were seen by Amy Hadley in both hurdle races and Evans in the 100m dash.

"We knew we could do it without Maicel," commented Dobbs. The team finished third overall in the state meet, and with an overall record of 120-10-1. Almost everyone returns next year, and so again North Central will be a force with which to be reckoned.

Showing the closeness of the team are Kristi Field and Breck Mosley.

Return as Champs

Jeremy Glowacki —

After a five year draught, the boys' golf team, led by Bill Angell won the Marion County title.

The team began their season with victories over Lawrence North and Warren Central in their first two dual meets. The Panthers were led by Greg Thompson in both of these victories with scores of 35 and 36 respectively. This two game win streak was soon halted, however, by the eventual state champion Kokomo Wildkats. The loss to Kokomo didn't seem to keep the Panthers down for long for they went on to win their next three dual meets.

John Friedersdorf, coach of the team, was, for the most part, quite impressed with the outcome of the season. He commended the performance of the team which consisted almost entirely of underclassman. Angell, the sole senior on the County championship team, did prove to be an asset; his low scores being the best on the team in eight out of the 11 dual meets.

While Angell used his varsity experience to do consistently well, it was the younger more inexperienced players that seemed to be a bit more inconsistent. Although this factor was shown in the invitationals and sectional tournament, Coach Friedersdorf preferred to focus on the positive. He looked to the dual meets where he felt the team only lost to "quality teams" as positive.

Another positive dealing with the youth of the team involves the building for the future. Coach Friedersdorf looks for even better performances from County participants Ryan Gavigan, Brian Jacobson, Thompson, and Dave Boncosky who shared All-County recognition along with Angell.

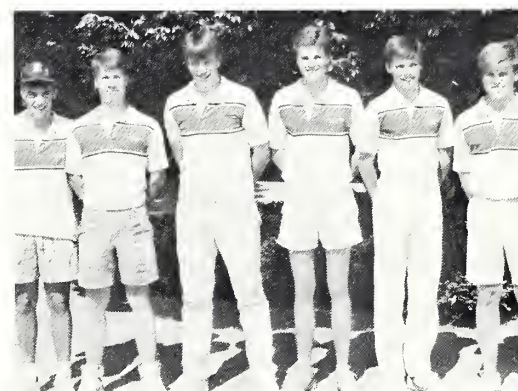

Keeping his head down on his backswing, Bill Angell takes a few practice swings before stepping up to the tee. Angell led the County Champs with a 76 average.

Calm under pressure, Dave Boncosky shows the signs of a good golfer with his short game. Boncosky had the second best average on the team (80.9) and made the All-County Team.

County Champs: B. Jacobson, G. Thompson, Coach Friedersdorf, B. Angell, R. Gavigan.

Reserve: L. Zieloskowsky, J. Reinkenberger, S. Schilling, T. Glassley, H. Craabel, R. Huff.

Tennis still number one

Jim Pearce —

One more season went by, and the lady Panthers grasped yet another state title. With their first place finish, the girls tennis team completed the tournament with a 25-0 record. The girl's attitude from the start was, "we'll keep what's ours," as they referred to their 1987 state title. Under the leadership of senior Stephanie Reece, the 1988 team knew they had their work cut out for them. The team knew Carmel would provide tough competition that could prevent them from winning state.

Junior Dina Bleecker admitted that, "If we are going to beat Carmel, we must come together as a team." It was obvious that the talent was there, but now it was a matter of doing it. The team did it, winning state easily. Reece, Laura Moss, Ali Bleecker, Elizabeth Weaver, Sheila DeMars, Robyn Vannatta, Hema Gupta, and Dina Bleecker all contributed to the win.

Once again it was evident that hard work, concentration, and high spirits led to the deserved number one ranking. The defending champs prevailed once more.

Improvement after every game

Jeremy Glowacki —

As is the case with most any young football team, the 1988 Panthers found themselves dealing with inexperience in the early part of the season.

The team started slowly for a number of reasons. First, four new coaches were brought in giving a new perspective for the Panthers. Second, a new system with more passing was implemented and third the tremendous amount of youth on the team all contributed to an inconsistent beginning.

This "roller coaster" ride lasted until the seventh game where Coach George Pappas saw his team catch on to the new offense, and finally begin playing really well. NC dominated such games as Terre Haute North, the second match-up with Tech and against an improved Southport team. Even early in the season, the Panthers felt that they could play with a very tough Ben Davis team though they were just a notch below their potential at the time. After the team caught fire, they found that they could score by pass, run, and even on kick-off returns, showing that long hours of hard work do "bear fruit".

The team was led by their inspiring team captains Mike Senn and Aaron Shelby as well as by most of the seniors. This leadership was shown in the team's never say die attitude.

According to Pappas, "the most impressive thing about this team is that each week they worked harder and got better. Even during the most difficult times, they never shyed away. The kids just never quit."

Under the guidance of coach Barry Brownhill and team leadership by captains Mari McDonald and Zoe Abdul, the girl's soccer team formed one of the best teams ever.

"At the start of the season we had the talent and drive that could have taken us to state," explains Erin Newton.

The beginning of the season was a strong one for the girls who posted an impressive upset victory over Carmel. Shaina Ettinger and McDonald proved to be strong scorers. Other strong performers were goal keeper Jenny Rizzo, Melissa Kemple on defense, and Shannon Denny, who scored two goals in the Carmel victory.

Many players will return next year as the Panthers pursue their state championship.

Oh so close

Greg Akers —

"Close, but no cigar" is a cliché the boys' soccer team has heard before, and unfortunately the saying fits once again as the Panthers made it to the final four before being defeated by arch-rival Carmel.

"It was a pretty disappointing finish to another good season," commented senior star Jon Kamara. "Losing to who we did didn't make it any easier."

Despite the final outcome, the Panthers, coached by Jerry Little, compiled yet another impressive record to continue the program's successful tradition. Carrying 16 seniors along the way, the very experienced team had several standouts. Along with Kamara, Proano helped lead the squad in his fourth season as a varsity starter.

Added Proano, "We had the team, just not the luck."

Forever champs

The boys' tennis team did it once again. State Championship number 10!

The team was undefeated during the regular season, with their only tough match coming from archrival Carmel, who the Panthers disposed of 4-1. The team was led by seniors David Held, Tom Wiese, and Tag Birge, who were all carry overs from two previous NC tennis state championships.

Tom Wiese was the state's Mental Attitude Award winner. This honor along with his 104-1 record put him among the elite tennis stars at NC. Birge and Held were also stars for the tennis team and State would have been unattainable without their help.

Coach Buckley ranked this team as one of the top ones he has ever coached which says a lot about the character of the team.

Along with the seniors, there were other top players including Mike Hopkinson, Erik Barrett, Mike Ricafort, John Baxter and Joe Liddy.

The 1988 Girls Cross Country Team had a great season, finishing fifth place in the State Meet. Sarah Wiehe led the Panthers most of the year, although Sara Kendrick and Karen Willis were number one on occasion.

The Panthers blew away area competition, ending up 14-0 in dual meets and winning the Southport Invitational, Southeastway Hokum Karum, and County Championship. Many team members contributed hard work throughout the season. Freshman Angee McKnight provided a needed fourth runner, while Debbie Crutchfield held the fifth position. Junior Ella Manker and sophomore Janet Ananias filled the top seven.

The Panthers look very strong for next season, graduating no one from the top seven.

About There

Jim Pearce —

The 1988 North Central boys cross country team, led by juniors Andrew Terry and Jim Pearce finished a strong seventh in the semistate meet, narrowly missing the fourth place effort necessary to qualify for state.

Throughout the year, the team was led by a top five of juniors. Mike Gage and Bob Keedy provided team leadership and sophomores Peter Nelson and Peter Rohan provided the final two spots on the top seven.

Placing well in many meets, the Panthers achieved a successful season. Though Carmel always seemed to get in the way.

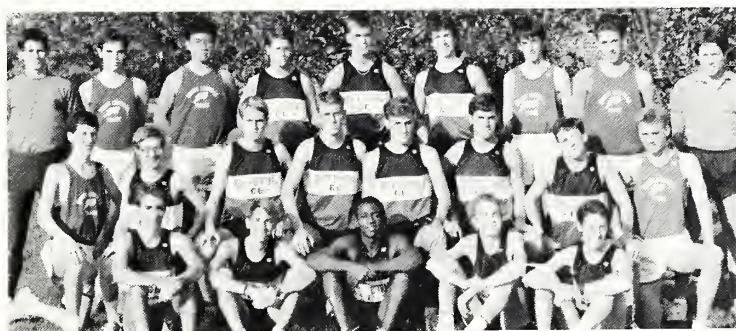

During the season all team members recorded personal best times. The best time overall turned out to be a school record of 15:38 by Terry.

With a look of youth on the team, the Panthers built for the future the whole season. The team will graduate only one member of its top seven in Gage along with another significant member, Eric Schildbach.

Coach Rick Stover looks for much future success. But according to Stover, "we will only be a better team if those returning commit and discipline themselves to get the job done during the summer."

So with the experience of the season and the practice of the future, a state championship could be in the future.

New Start

— Bret Wilhoite

Early in the fall it looked as if there would not be a girls' golf team, but in the end a team was formed.

Led by Senior Kathy Angell, the Panthers were able to finish with a victory over Brebeuf. The Panthers had an enjoyable season with each team member gaining confidence in their ability to play.

This year's team was loaded with freshmen. Five of the six members will return next year much improved. By their Senior year, this team could easily be one to contend for the state title. For their first season of competition for many of the players, it was a good start. When the team plays in more matches next fall, they will have the experience necessary.

With Coach Joe Murphy at the helm, the team should be well prepared for every match. Now that the groundwork has been laid, next year should be much better. If the team strives to improve, they will become continually better until they reach their ultimate goals.

Barbee leads team to victories

Once again the Panthers delivered an impressive season, finishing with a hard earned 20-7 record.

Led by senior Tony Barbee, the experienced team included seven seniors, all of whom made important contributions throughout the season. Seniors Greg Akers and Aaron Shelby provided a strong outside punch while seniors Kevin Brown and Todd Geyer, along with junior Kirby Brafford and freshman Kenny Wright gave NC a powerful inside game.

The Panthers started off the season hot, winning their first four games including an exciting victory over then second ranked Kokomo. Hard times followed, however, as the team dropped the next three games in a row.

The team came back with impressive victories over Warren and Ben Davis before losing a heartbreaker to a tough Pike team.

From there, the Panthers won eight of their next 10 games and were ready for sectional play to begin.

In the opening round of the sectionals, the Panthers were stunned by an improved Broad Ripple team 63 to 64, ending a well played season.

"Get out of my way!" Tony Barbee electrifies the crowd with one of his many dunks. The University of Massachusetts bound Barbee placed in the top five in scoring for the metro area.

Getting in position, Todd Geyer takes the low post against a Carmel defender. Geyer, after his third year of varsity play, was recruited by Creighton University on a full scholarship.

Girls finish 6-4-1

Renee Erler smiles after another victory.

— Jim Pearce

The 1989 Panther Girl's Swimming Team led by seniors Danielle Kovach and Meggan Bovitz finished the season with a winning record after two losing seasons. Only one team member, Debbie Williamson advanced to state competition. Williamson placed fourth in diving.

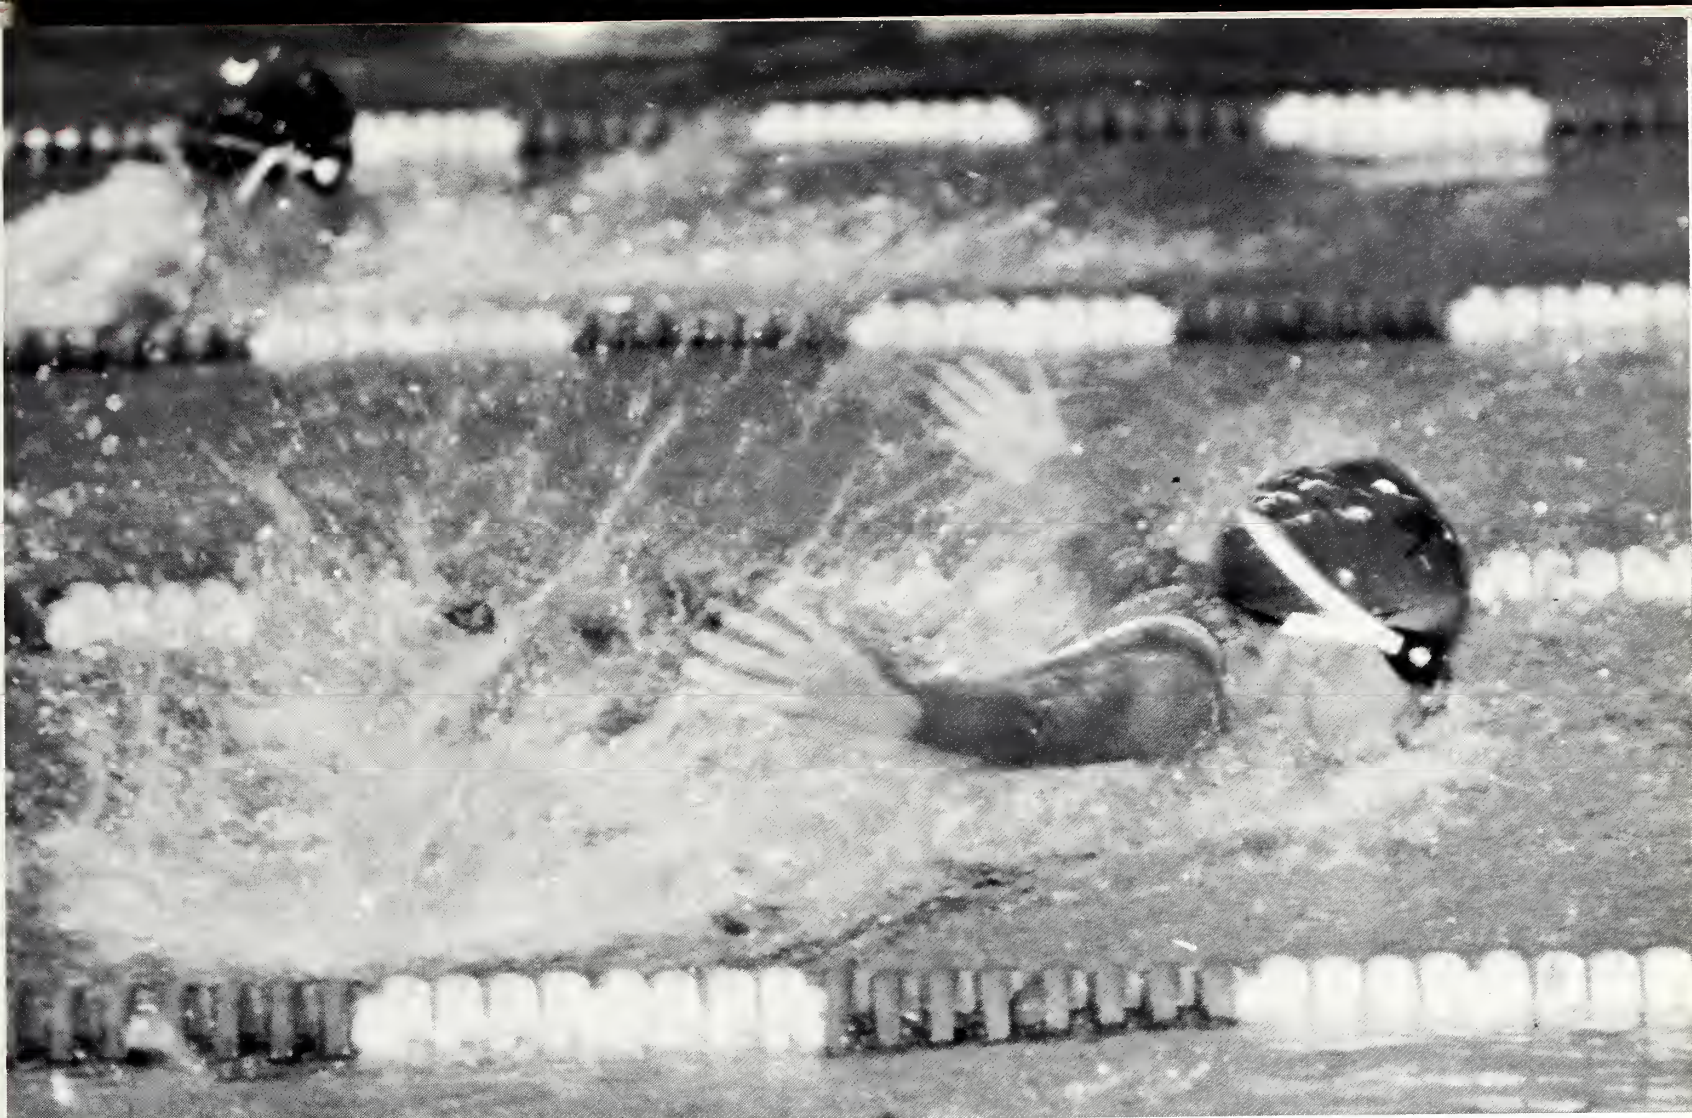

The team's two major goals were to have a winning season and to win county. They placed second in county, but succeeded in having a winning season. Many strong swimmers will return next year. Renee Erler will return for breaststroke and Sara Chambers in butterfly. Alicia O'Brien will return for 200 and 500 freestyle.

Leadership of people like Kovach and Bovitz will be missed, but other members will take their places. Next year's team should be greatly improved and ready to make a run for the top places in state. Best of luck to our Panther swimmers!

Strong year in swimming

Jeremy Glowacki —

The 88-89 Panther swim team, a team that was good to work with and was dedicated was also successful, going 12-1 on the regular season. Led in workouts by Sean Barrett and Jim Thurston, as well as Dan Hume and Scott Powell in moral support, the Panthers became a tight knit group.

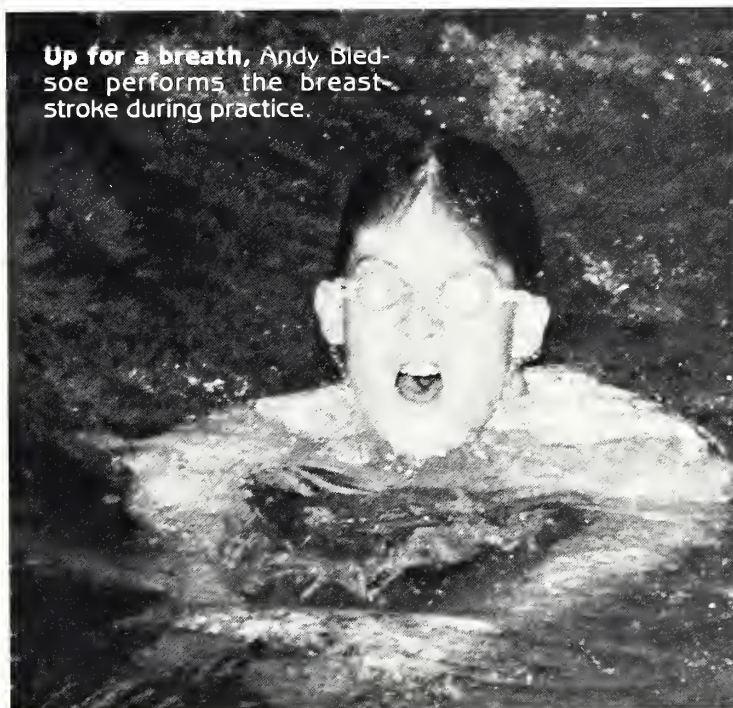

NC with it's talented group of Rob Meadows, who broke his own 100 yd. breast-stroke record, Andy Bledsoe in the butterfly, Jason Brooks in the 200 IM. and sprinter, Jason Yoder, was successful in all dual meets and invitational. The only regular season defeat came to state contender Kokomo. According to Powell, the team was even stronger than expected with freshmen Walter Lockhart and Steve Hartsock coming on in varsity competition. In addition, many points were gained by the frequent one, two, three finishes of divers Jerry Franklin, Andy Sexson and Monty Wandling.

Strong tournament showing

Bret Wilhoite —

Despite being a very young team, this year's wrestling team was able to overcome a number of injuries and surprise everyone by becoming Sectional and Regional champions.

The team was led by Jon Kamara (130 lbs.) and Pete Dubish (140 lbs.), both of whom qualified for the state championship along with heavyweight Tony Henderson.

For Kamara the turning point in the season was his loss in the county tournament. This loss inspired him to work hard. Kamara said that "this year's team was always working hard in practice and that helped in preparation for the Sectional and the Regional tournaments."

Despite having a losing regular season the Panthers were able to finish with one of their best seasons by winning the Sectional and Regional titles for first year coach Joe Murphy. In the semi-state competition, North Central did reasonably well as a team by finishing eighth in addition to qualifying three individuals.

Flipping Out!!

Crystal Haynes shows some flair while performing on the balance beam.

Led by senior co-captains Darci Gallion and Kim Floyd, the '89 gymnastics team had a very respectable season. Seniors Mari McDonald, Ellie Herman, and junior Sylvia Ertel helped the team to a third place in county.

The experienced and unified Lady Panthers were led in the all-around by Gallion and Kristen Hess while Peggy Stein was close behind. On bars, Herman was the team's top scorer along with McDonald who also scored well on vault. Floyd performed well on floor exercise and freshman Crystal Haynes showed promise as a top beam competitor. Rounding off the team's depth was Sylvia Ertel who was a top scorer on vault.

The unity as well as the seasoned competitors on the team both contributed to an impressive sectional showing in which N.C. placed first.

Improved Season

Jeremy Glowacki —

This year's NC hockey season was one of drastic improvement. The Panthers went from a single victory season to one of 20 wins and only six losses.

The non-sanctioned sport of hockey at NC brought much more fan support this season due to the enthusiasm of Kris Cerola and Rob Whitacre. With this new found spirit came wins. NC defeated tough opponents, Warren Central, who was ranked ahead of the Panthers at the time, and beat Centerville. The team came close to defeating New Haven who had a long winning streak coming into the game. Possibly the biggest moral victory game when NC led two and a half periods against Carmel before being defeated. Though the season contained good wins and close losses, according to Rob Whitacre, the team with a lot of talent, lacked dedication.

"When we had practices, only five or six people would show and it's difficult to gel when you never practice as a team," said Whitacre.

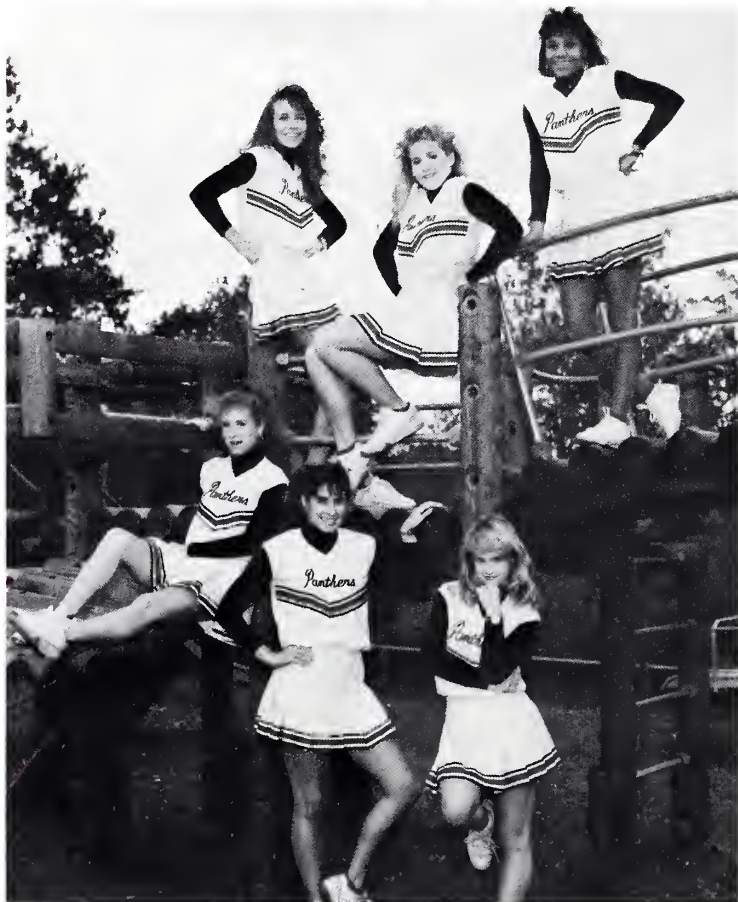

Looking for an open man, John Ruby skates in open ice.

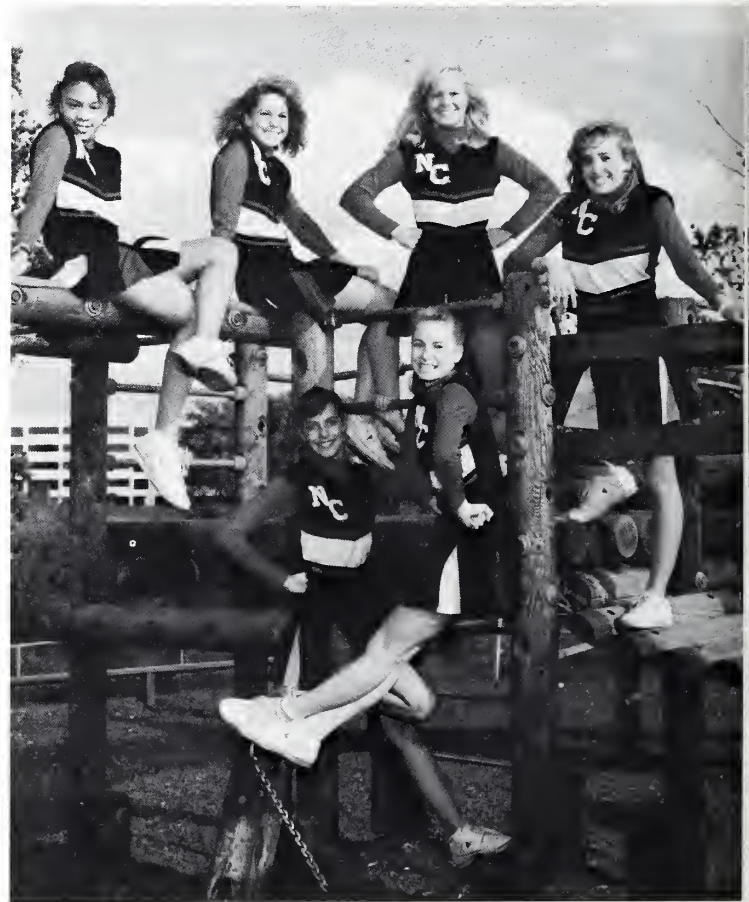

Losing control of the puck, Captain Zach Buhner gets checked into the boards.

Leading the crowd in a cheer, members of the varsity and freshman cheerleaders start the Panther beat.

The Keyholders Album

There are so many opportunities at North Central that are available to the keyholders: the people who learn and work here. There are chances to become involved in clubs, productions, sports and, academics. The keyholders are the most important part of the unique club called N.C. The diversity of the members enhances every activity offered. We have all kinds of people; there is someone for everyone. These are the people with whom our memories are made. We eat, play, and learn with these people. We are a diverse group, yet we also have much in common. We are the keyholders who have a chance to take the opportunities that are ...

FOR MEMBERS ONLY.

Enjoying themselves thoroughly at Homecoming, Paco Proano and Jill Chamness exchange a friendly hug.

Showing off their Panther Pride, a group of fearless (and shirtless) men have fun at the pep session.

Homecoming

Nervously watching Mr. Walker's highwire act, a group of cheerleaders stare intensely at the performance during the pep session.

Cracking their backs simultaneously, football players, Walter Nelson, Monte Baily, Matt Simon and Ed Yee are caught in action by our hidden cameras.

While performing at the Homecoming dance, Tad Armstrong is electrically shocked by a malfunctioning microphone.

Flashing a rather devious smile, Homecoming King Aaron Shelby dances with Queen April Taylor.

Seniors

"It is not doing the things we like, but liking the things we have to do that make life happy."

— Goethe

We seniors, as Goethe explains, have mastered the art of enjoying the things we have to do by choosing not to do the task or by devising a plan to get the work done with the least amount of effort. Senior year is filled with great times with close friends that will become the memories of our youthful days. After graduation we journey out into the "college scene" or "real world" or wherever our destinies take us. As we go our separate ways, we can rest assured that our high school experience has built a complete and exciting foundation upon which we will build the rest of our lives. We take with us the thoughts of the good times we've shared.

Clowning around, Colin Forsyth, Joe Mishkan, and Erin Newton collide at the Senior Bonfire.

"Put on your seatbelt Jeremy!" Senior Jeremy Mendelson gets a little wild after mowing 300 acres of Hoosier farmland.

Posing in her prom attire, Senior Megan Pendergast imitates her pet flamingo while waiting for her date.

After failing to get her parachute open, skydiver Pam Manwaring is miraculously saved by a passing ship in the Atlantic.

"We can do anything we want — we're SENIORS!"

What these seniors want to do is show their spirit. Keely Braeckel, Amy Wheeler, Mindy Bepko, Christy White, Stacey Linkon and Beth Rugh cheer on the Panthers at a fall sports pep session.

Class discussion provides Maseer Bade and Jon Nowlin with a chance to air their views.

Seniors Craig Knox and Amy Scherb listen attentively as Stephanie Schmidt explains the fine points of composition writing.

Damian Garrison can hardly contain his excitement about being a senior.

Juniors

Relaxed and carefree, Mike Nurok enjoys the summer scenery from his bike.

SPEC, Prom, PSATs, SATs, jobs. The Junior year has been called the busiest of all the high school years. Yet for all the seniors' warnings, many of us don't realize the pressures we have to face until we actually experience them.

Upon becoming Juniors we realize that college is not far off. We know that it is time to start bringing our GPA up, to start stocking up on extracurricular activities for college applications, and to study for SATs in hopes of impressing that certain dreamed of university next year. These concerns, in addition to SPEC practice, a job, or the myriad of other time consumers NC students participate in, are more than enough to make a hectic schedule.

However, even considering the many responsibilities we pile upon ourselves, the Junior year is a gratifying and exhilarating one. The fun of Prom, clubs and parties, the satisfaction felt after getting everything done and the excitement of anticipating being Seniors, all tend to make up for the stress.

These things are the memories we will take with us from our Junior year.

Kevin Anker takes a few moments out of his hectic Junior life to contemplate the meaning of life.

All dolled up. Rebecca Willis and Missa Wermund smile about being Juniors.

Matt Moore, Aaron Minnis, Juliet Theaker, Keely Miles and Jessica Jackson pause between classes to smile in the Student Center.

Aaron Smith and Richard Webb grudgingly get on the bus, hating to leave after an exciting day at NC.

"We're cool!" Juniors Reggie Johnson, Hans Kraable and Damon Keough display joy at being juniors.

Enjoying a warm fall, Jeremy Sosin bares it all. (or almost)

"Slurp," junior Michelle Smith quickly finishes her lunch as the bell rings.

Goofing around, Amy Allen, Rebecca Willis, Elaine Purdie, Meghan Parker and Camme Smith pose on the Mall in Washington, D.C.

Junior Spectacular

Spec. It's the reason that juniors don't get their homework done, don't get enough sleep and generally go crazy. But there is more to it than that. The hard work and practice put in by the writers, as well as other participants, brings about class unity and three unforgettable nights.

"Fly By Night", the almost murder mystery, was written by Milele Mitcham, Laura Shumar and Greg Wilson. Gabe Corbin plays the Shadow who kills Doug Moore and is apprehended by Clifton Sleight (Keith Goldstein).

"Bedtime Tails", written by Nissa Wermund, Rianne Stone and Becky Kasper, is the story of two bunnies (Angle Edge and Andrew Terry) and the tale they tell about Anasazi to get the young bunny (Bob Keedy) to go to sleep.

An innovation of a regular Spec act, "The Little Act," is a humorous tale of death by Paul Jaskunas and Ann Banta. Mr. Stewart (Mir Kaissar) calls his two sons (Charles Wong and Jaskunas) to his death bed for this fabulous act.

"It's A Jungle Out There" was written by Randy Moor-man, Ben Prince and Nat Vaprin. Scarlett Bourgeois (Terra Hoskins) is captured by headhunters only to be rescued by her ex-husband Lance Luther (Luther Creek) and dropped in a vat of acid.

"Stop! It's almost 7:30!"

These two teenage rabbits (Andrew Terry and Angie Edge) will soon be faced with the unpleasant task of putting the boy rabbit's younger brother to bed in "Bedtime Tails."

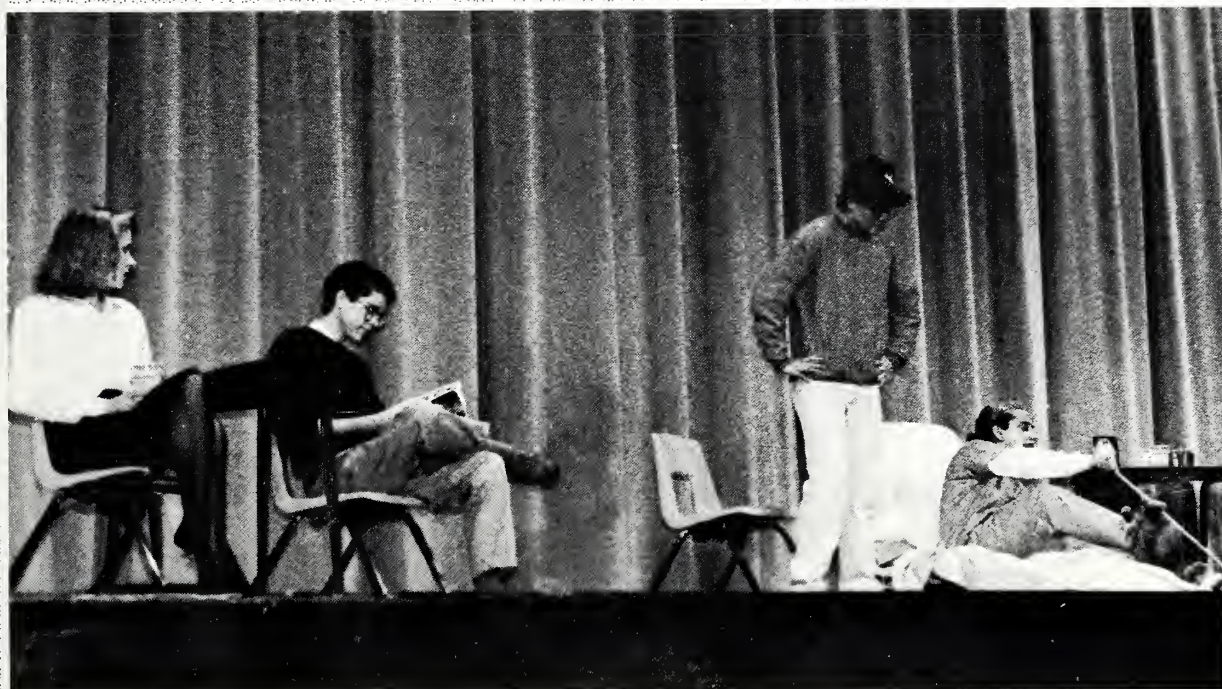

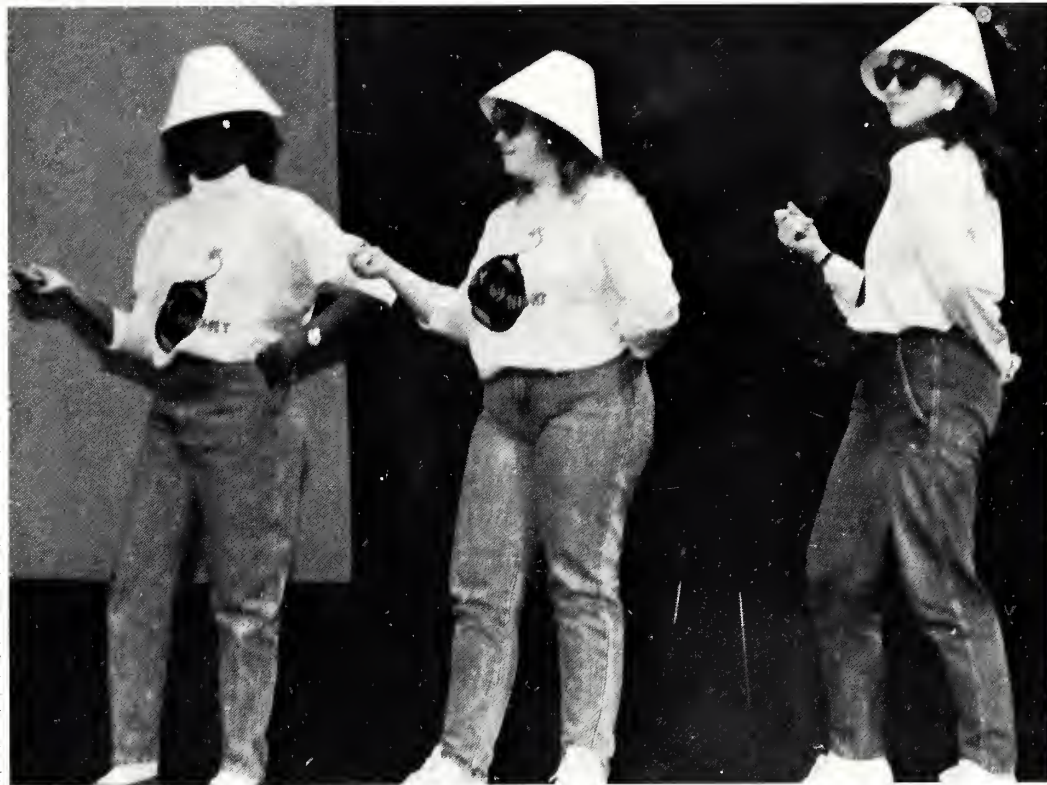

It's a Jungle Out There!

marches to the beat of a different drummer, or in this case the beat of three drummers (Blane Sherman, Eric Ramsey and Sean Garrison) from a tribe of savage headhunters.

Marion Carpenter, Hope McKune and Lauren Fleming be-bop their way through a tribute to the great detective Sleigh in "Fly By Night."

Mr. Stewart (Mir Kaissar) argues with his family Jenny Taybos, Paul Jaskunas and Charles Wong in the "The Little Act."

SOPHOMORES

Being a sophomore has its ups and downs, just as any point in life, but we seem to have very special things unique to us.

The most frustrating thing is being at such an in between stage. We don't experience the attention (positive or negative) that freshmen receive and we aren't upper-classmen. There isn't that feeling of superiority. Another factor that adds to our frustration is the fact that most of us don't have our drivers' license. It certainly makes getting around very difficult.

On the other hand the sophomore year is a door open wide to the next two years. After a year of experience we pretty much know the ropes which makes finding a place for ourselves much easier. Finding oneself leaves room for other people. Experience in life is gained and we become more mature and independent. We are able to handle more responsibility and privileges. To our parents this might mean growing up.

Some may say the purpose of the sophomore year is to have fun before the next two difficult years, others say crack down now so that you have the discipline to enjoy the next two years.

Study hard! Sophomores Stephanie Roach and Rabia Talib review for a test.

"Oh, isn't he cute!" Jenny Carpenter and Ali Bleecker lean "fondly" on Joe Heidt's shoulder.

"Watch out, son!" Sophomore Woody Palk works hard in Mr. Watson's chemistry class with Terhan Doner and Annette Leonard.

"Yeah!" Beth Mosey and Amy Ashby celebrate life as sophomores.

"Sophomores rule!" say Nick Hart, Monique Vorrhis, Chereese Willis, Robert Pier-son, Kerri Boone and Tamika Mooney.

Freshman. The word evokes different reactions from groans to laughter. But to the freshmen themselves, this is a year of adjustment, both to their new high school atmosphere and the enormous number of students they come in contact with every day.

Freshman year is the start and ground level zero. It is a clean slate for grades and for many a step away from their middle school friends. Many of this class of 1992 have gotten involved in clubs and organizations that are a big part of NC life. Still others participate in sports.

Learning one's way around school and adjusting to the 7:30 a.m. start of the day are tough

Wow. Paul Lundgaard sits in stunned silence as he contemplates the rest of his high school career.

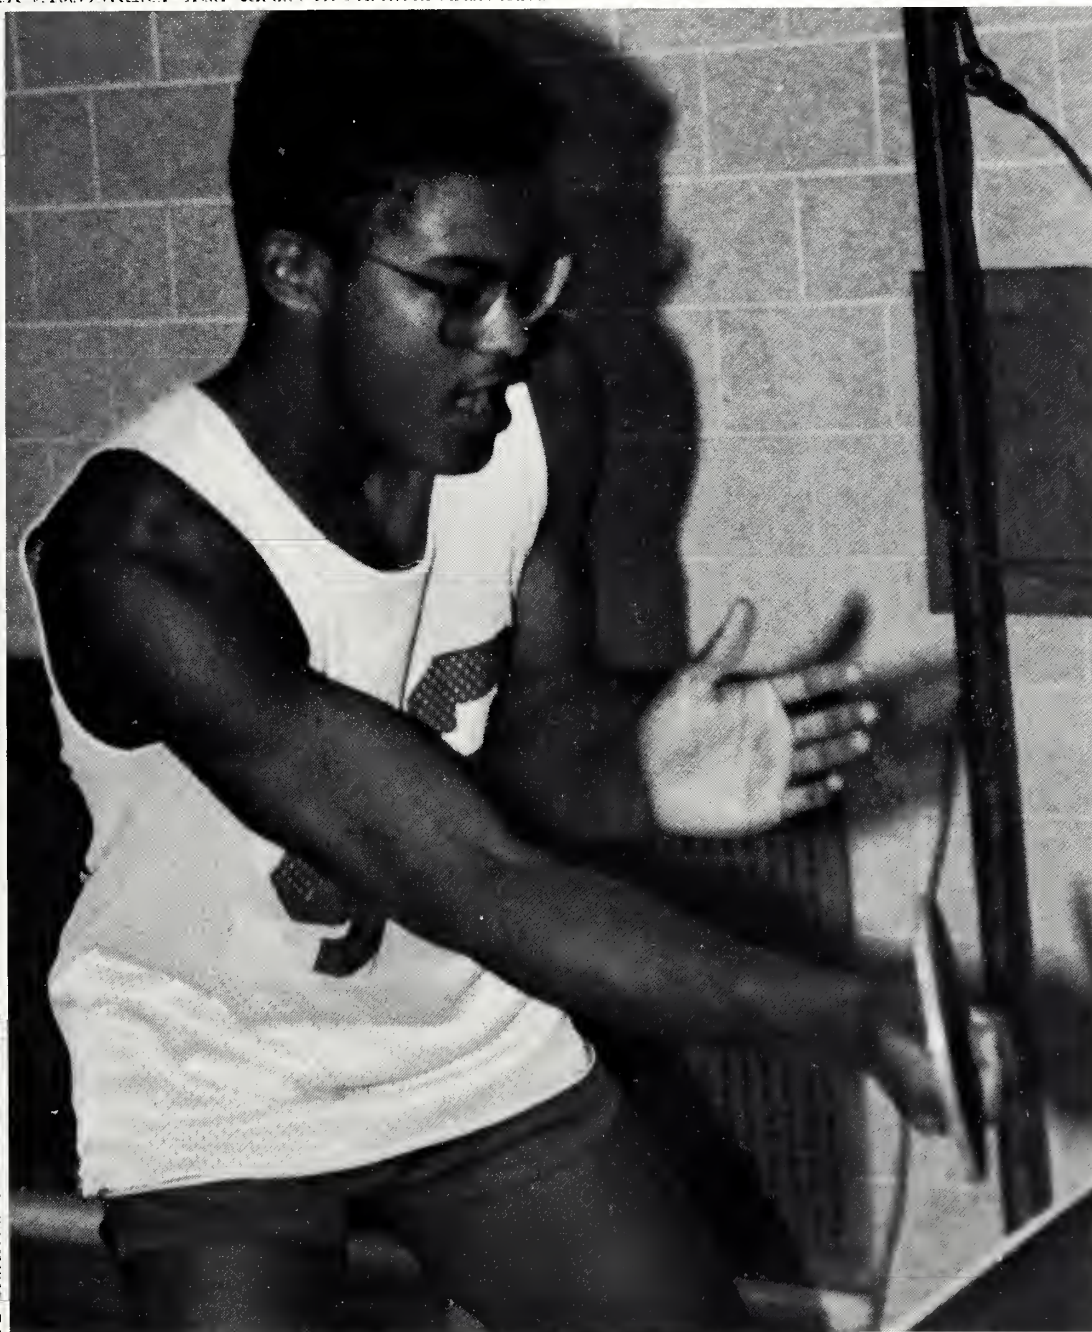

"Milk, it does the body good," says freshman Laura McMullen.

"Smile pretty for the camera!" Ashlee Taylor and Miss Greathouse express their aspirations to be models.

"It's all Greek to me," says freshman Saul Huron to his Drew teacher Mr. Cohen.

Take that! Freshman Adam Evans releases his frustration on a ping pong paddle in p.e.

Anxiously awaiting their "Panther Specials", are Amy Marsh, Libby Spalding and Susan Dwyer.

"Go ahead, try to make us take our trays up!" say Matt Melton, Joe Stimming, Brent Corbin, Mark Myers and Bill Keedy.

Freshmen Wendy Waldman and Meredith Burns learn that lunch is really the time to do homework.

Working diligently, Bill Needy discovers the quiet ambiance of the library is perfect for writing his composition.

Freshman Nathan Ertle and Nick Serbar find that the only reason to smile in the cafeteria is for the camera.

Strangely stretching, Krystal Haines, Peggy Stein and Nicole Sexon get ready for gymnastics practice.

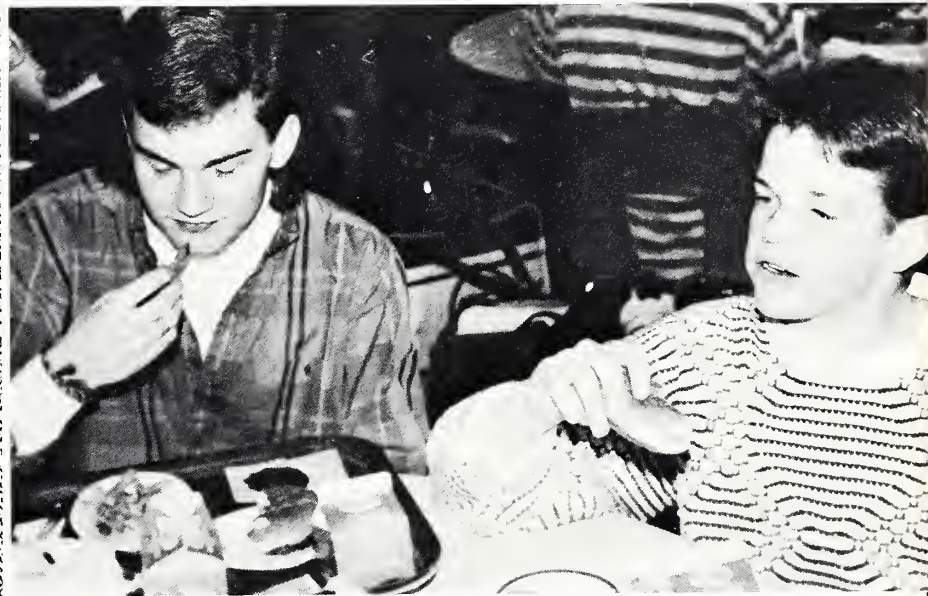

Open wide! Freshmen Tony Wilks and Steve Hartsock discovered a less attractive side of being in high school.

Ready, aim! Freshman Adam Scott experiences the joy of physical education through badminton.

"Yum, yum!" say freshmen Bill Smith and Kevin Bonning as they munch their H.C. vittles.

Why am I the only guy working here? Biaggio Azzereli ponders this question while looking for a snack at Sweet Things.

Dedicated and hard working David Wu, handles a job at Chic-Fil-A in addition to all of his school responsibilities.

What's in the bag? Brian Winger sure is proud of his produce.

Key To Good Buys Advertisements

Advertisements are the key to good-buys. Many N.C. students have to work. Although it may not be a favorite passtime, it is very important. Students have a wide variety of jobs. Some are salesmen, some are cooks, some hostesses, and others work in offices. They save their money for various purposes.

Some put their money towards cars or a college education. Others spend their money on weekend activities. Through working, N.C. students demonstrate the responsibility they have learned by being a member of the unique club. Since jobs are such a big part of the lives of students' outside school, it is only fair that we give it some recognition here. These are the ads that are . . . FOR MEMBERS ONLY.

Confident in the quality goods he sells, Shane Cohen can't help but smile.

Calmly anticipating the ecstasy before him, David Boncosky admires this creation and the great taste only a Chick-fil-A sandwich can deliver.

Chick-fil-A Awards Scholarships

In 1962, S. Truett Cathy created the First Chick-fil-A sandwich. "From his first restaurant on a highway to Florida, Cathy rose to become founder and president of Chick-fil-A Inc., an astonishingly successful, coast to coast chain of 375 fast-food restaurants in 32 states," stated Jasper Dorsey, a writer from Atlanta, Georgia.

One thing that Cathy is totally committed to is young people. His interest has grown over 30 years, since he began teaching young boys at Sunday school. This dedication has carried over into his business. Employees who average over 20 hours a week and have worked at Chick-fil-A for two years are rewarded a $1000 scholarship, provided they are recommended by their Operator.

Mr. Dan Young, the Operator at Castleton Square has had the pleasure of giving out 35 scholarships in the seven years since Chick-fil-A has been open at Castleton Square. — copy by Traci Yencer Satisfying "sweet teeth" with Colombo frozen yogurt, Junior Sarah Vinicor confidently dispenses a healthful ice cream alternative.

BEN & JERRY'S

Ben & Jerry's wishes you "Good Luck" in making life's toughest decisions, like:

1. Where should I go to College?
2. What do I want to be when I grow up?
3. What Ice Cream flavor am I going to order at Ben & Jerry's?

(Don't worry...this is one test you can't fail!)

THE BEN & JERRY STUDY GUIDE

ICE CREAM FLAVORS

NEW YORK SUPER FUDGE CHUNK--Chocolate ice cream with pecans, walnuts, chocolate-covered almonds, and white and dark chocolate chunks. The only way it could be better is if it were named "Indiana Super Fudge Chunk."

CHERRY GARCIA™--Vanilla ice cream with dark cherries and chocolate flakes. Tasty proof that the Sixties are not dead!

MACADAMIA NUT--Vanilla ice cream with whole macadamia nuts. A scoop of this is better than a trip to Hawaii! (Not really but it's cheaper, at least.)

PEANUT BUTTER CHOCOLATE CHUNK--Peanut butter ice cream with rich chunks of chocolate. Peanut butter lovers say, "Mph! phreally gddd!"

COLOPHON

The thirty-third edition of the NORTHERNER was printed by Newsfoto Publishing Company of San Angelo, Texas. Dick Kennard served as our representative.

The lithocote cover is white #088 with red #030 and black #001 applied.

All 264 pages are 80 lbs. enamel, 30 of which are in four process color. There was a press run of 1950 copies. The type style selected was Nouveau Gothic; 14 point body copy, 10 point captions, 8 point picture panels and scoreblocks, 30 point folio tabs with 12 point lettering. Each section editor picked his own headline style.

Photography for seniors and underclassmen was done by Prestige Photography. All other pictures were provided by staff photographers, members of the student body and Visual Sports Network of Indianapolis.

Sophomore Kelley Mallon takes a break while working in the science lab as a lab assistant.

Who really has fun in the library? Amy Cook and Libby Spalding seem to find the N.C. library to be amusing.

To The Founders Of "For Members Only"

There may have been moments when we each had our doubts as to whether or not we would ever finish this yearbook. We scurried around in frenzies for two days before each deadline, but we always managed to pull through. For all of the times that I seemed too busy to notice the great jobs you all did, I really was paying attention! You put together a great book that I know will inspire many memories, . . . FOR MEMBERS ONLY . . . , in the years to come. I compliment and thank you all.

SARA —

I should really make you write THIS copy!(Ha, for once) Well we actually did it. We've come a long way from I.U., huh? Maybe I could buckle a little harder coming back from bowling. Love those HOT summer nights. We didn't get nearly enough c — p medicine this year. Seriously, thanks for everything you did, especially the layouts and correcting the errors in my copy. Good luck at Cornell next year, I'll miss you!

DINA —

What can I say? We never figured yearbook into our ideal high school days so long ago in the living room and refrigerator-box house. Hope I wasn't too rough on you. You did a great job pulling through in the end. Love those headlines! No more staying home on the weekends because your nightmare of an editor "made" you! We'll be roomies forever, right?

LEE ANN —

Thanks so much for having everything done on time. You made my job so much easier. We really had a tough time brainstorming for the theme at I.U., but I think it turned out great! I hope that no one thinks what you did at first (Wait, isn't that a brand of clothes)! Your section turned out great (even those funky headlines that kept getting screwed up)!

RUTHANNE —

Aren't those photographers just so slow?! After that first hold up, when you had absolutely no pictures, things went really smoothly. Your section looks really good. Remember journalism camp? By the way do you REALLY go to the library?

JEREMY —

"I dread days and nights like this, though I strive on the stress of yearbook

deadlines combined with six weeks tests."

— J.G. —

My sentiments exactly, but it looks like you said it best. It's pretty nice having an invisible editor, huh? But you never really needed one, those pages just magically showed up on my desk. beautifully done. I appreciate your expertise (and even your editorial comments on layout and design)! Good luck next year!

DAVID —

(make that Dave Boncowski) What can I say? You are the most awesome man alive! (Wait a minute that's your line!) I love the way you handle responsibility . . . DELEGATE! Seriously, thank you for making yearbook bearable, and even FUN! Your tennis needs a little work, I'll give you a lesson soon.

JIM —

I heard that you can get life for billboard abuse! I'm glad that you remembered the phone numbers in your ads this year. I hope I wasn't too hard on you, you know I'm a real strong authoritarian! You managed to get it all done, and done very well at that! I appreciate all the "nice" things you had to say about me! You are so mean!

TRACY —

Let's watch those crop marks! Color pictures get them on the back, and don't scribble in the lines! Oh well, we always managed to adjust. Sorry about that double (committee chair) picture. Hopefully, no one will notice. Thanks for helping with theme forming at I.U. You did great on your section. I really liked yours and Jason's copy!

BECKY —

Did you ever think you would make it through? Imagine Spec and the final deadline at the same time! Quite some responsibility. After all of the hassles and mix ups, your section came out really well. Sorry if the Grand Inquisitor and I were rough at times. You had a lot to do and came out on top. Good luck next year.

JIM —

Well, we hardly got a chance to communicate at all this year. By the time I got in here third period you were finished. Lucky for us you caught on so quickly. You did a great job on your section. You always seemed so calm and in control. When all the other editors were complaining about pictures, you simply and quietly dealt with everything yourself. Thanks!

Special thanks to Elaine Purdie for her constant cheer and encouragement at I.U. and for coming up with page after page the night before the deadlines. I'd also like to thank the second semester helpers for their work on the album section.

Getting down to business, Ruthanne Shepherd discusses important yearbook affairs.

Making a run for it. these escaped convicts, Kyle Sherman, Paul Yonover, Jason Sherman, Jared Strauss, Mike Nurok, and John Sweeney find barbed wire to be a less than enjoyable obstacle.

"Ease on down the road", no, these students aren't performing a musical in the student center, they just want to be the center of attention.

Determined to learn, Jamie Harrison and Ben Schafer march toward school, backpacks in tow.

For Members Only

"Far away, there in the sun are my highest aspirations. I may not reach them, but I can look up, see their beauty, believe in them and try to follow where they lead." — William Morrow —

We have made it through another year of opportunities and experiences. The activities and events we have shared have helped us grow and mature. The memories of good times, friends, laughter, fears and anxieties made here will be looked back upon as the foundation of our achievements to come. From the first day jitters of freshmen to the relief of becoming a sophomore to the fun and hard work a junior undergoes until senioritis finally sets in, we learn the things that we will hold in our minds for the rest of our lives. Through the games, parties, lectures, contests, dances and discussions we gather the tools to build our futures and the memories of the times at N.C. that are . . .
FOR MEMBERS ONLY.

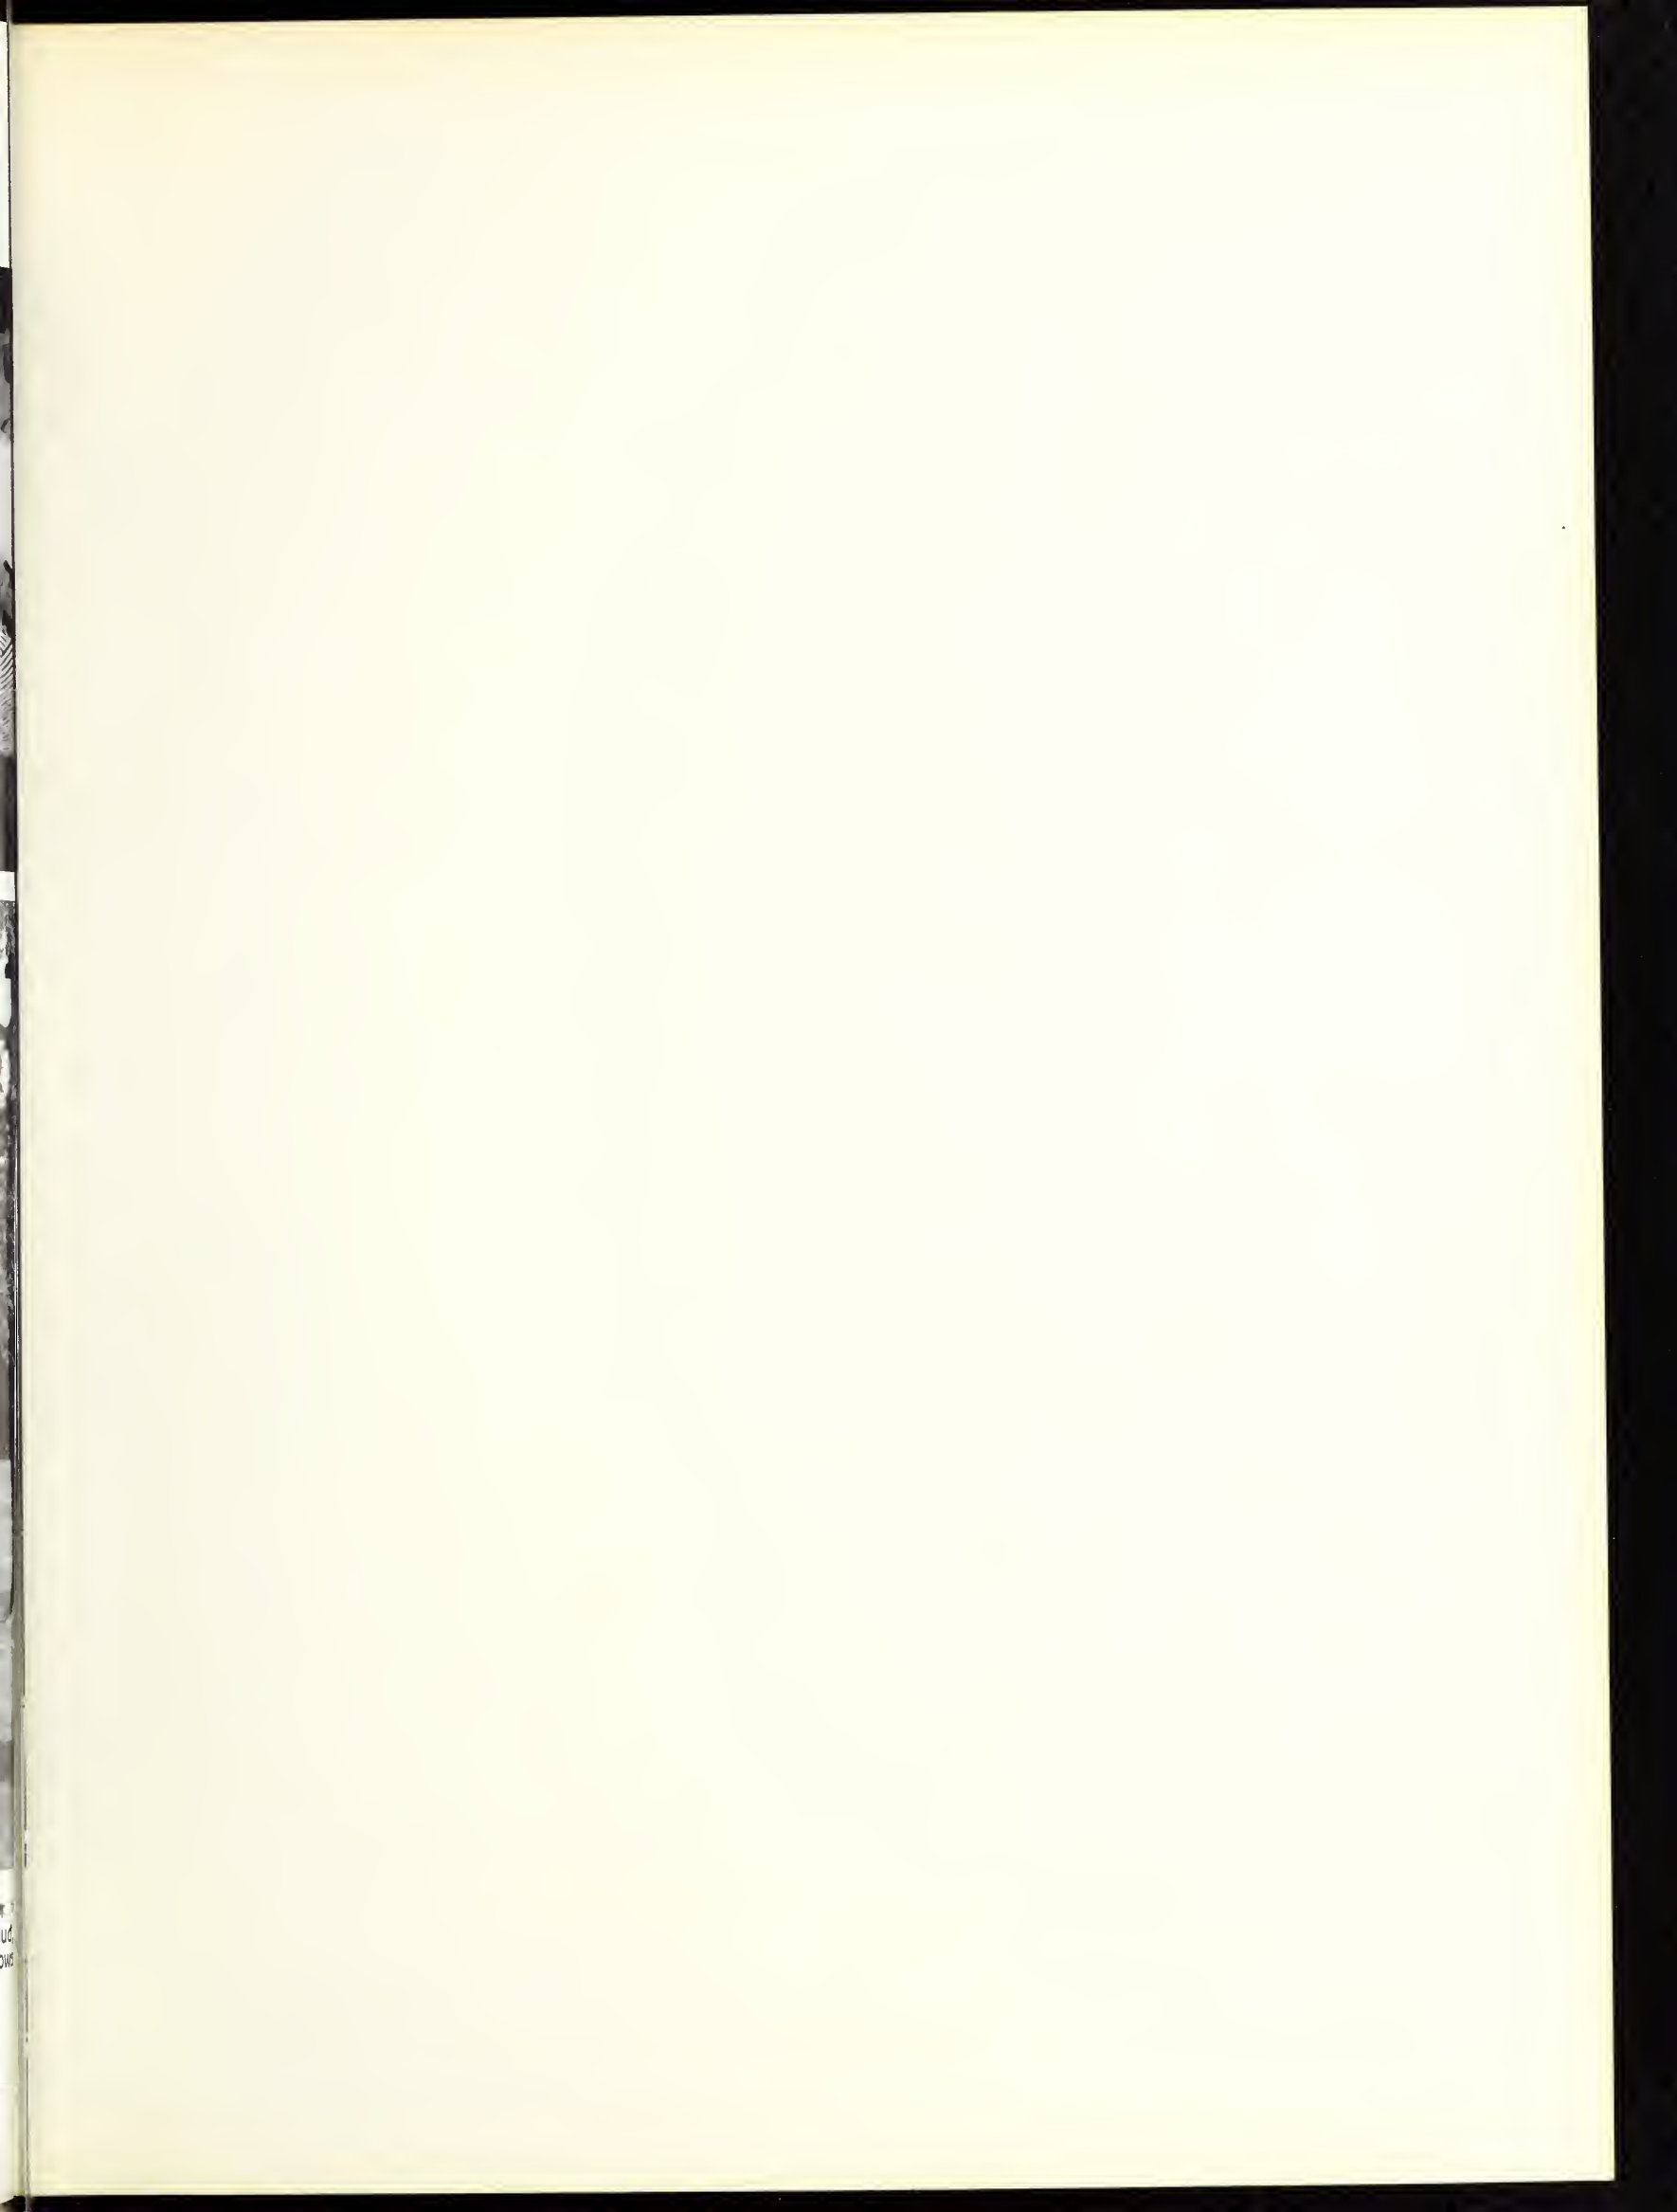

Locked away in a padded room, "apeman" Jim Calhoun practices primate mating calls.

Living it up! Seniors, Ryan Casterline, Tom Glassley, Chris Muckridge, Mari McDonald, and Melissa Hodowal enjoy a summer night get-together.

"Hey look ma!" After a rough romp in the mud, Randy Spruill proudly shows off his dirty jeep.
